

We Merge To Serve

RILEY MUNKERS
Manager, Grain Division

EVERETT BROCK
Manager, Machinery Division

JOEL ENGELMAN
Manager, Petroleum Products Division

We Welcome Your Suggestions

As we embark on this combined operation, we wish to emphasize that we welcome the suggestions of members and customers. Any time you have ideas that will result in better service or will help fulfill your needs more completely, we invite you to pass them along to us.

We thank everyone who has worked with either division in the past as member, customer or employee, and extend our appreciation for this support and loyalty.

We look forward with enthusiasm to a very pleasant relationship with all the people in the area.

As of June 1, 1967, Morrow County Grain Growers, Inc., and Lexington Oil Cooperative, Inc., were merged into one operation. This step was approved recently in separate elections by the memberships of each cooperative. Subsequently, Morrow County Grain Growers acquired Lexington Implement Co.

Under the merger and acquisition it is expected to effect some economies, develop a more efficient operation, serve members and patrons better, and to increase revenue.

Business will be carried on as usual at the three different locations.

Harlan McCurdy, Jr. will be general manager of Morrow County Grain Growers, Inc. Riley Munkers will be manager of the grain division, Joel Engelman will be manager of the petroleum products division, and Everett Brock will be manager of the machinery division.

In Taking This Step We Look Forward To Serving You Better

Morrow County Grain Growers, Inc., expects to give the very best service to all members and customers under the merged operation.

At the petroleum products division we will stock a full line of oils and gasoline, farm needs, tools, and hardware items, and the machinery division will handle the complete line of International farm machinery, trucks and pickups.

These will be offered at the lowest prices possible. MCGG, Inc., will retain its association with Pacific Supply Cooperative in the petroleum products division and with North Pacific Grain Growers in the grain division.

All customers—whether a member or not—are welcome to make purchases from the various divisions in order to benefit from the savings and services we offer.

Farmer Owned and Controlled

Morrow County Grain Growers, Inc.

Grain Division

LEXINGTON
PH. 989-8423

Machinery Division

LEXINGTON
PH. 989-8115

Petroleum Products Division

LEXINGTON
PH. 989-8111