Lundells Announce Daughter's Betrothal

Of interest to relatives and friends in this area is the announcement of the engagement and coming marriage of Miss Marilyn Michelle Lundell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lundell of Pendleton.

Miss Lundell will become the bride of John Anthony St. Laurent, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry St. Laurent of Napa, Calif., at Post Chapel, Fort Lewis, Wn., on Saturday, August 5.

Miss Lundell was graduated from Pendleton High school in 1966 and attended Blue Mountain Community college the past year.

Following his graduation from West High school in Bremerton, Wn., in 1963, Mr. St. Laurent attended Olympic College in Bremerton for two years and then attended Napa College, Napa, Calif.

He is presently on active duty with the United States Army at Fort Lewis, Wn.

Charlotte Walker $30 Prize Winner

Mrs. Charlotte Walker is a $30 winner in the Heppner Who's Who contest this week.

Her name was drawn from many entries submitted during the week in identifying Dr. Gerald Jones as the mystery person in the contest of the June 29 issue of the Gazette-Times.

Mrs. Katherine Lindstrom of Ione was judge for this week's contest and drew the winning entry.

Mrs. Walker correctly listed the 14 clues that identified Dr. Jones and thereby was awarded the $30-$5 for naming Dr. Jones and $25 for listing all the clues. The clues are: Black Bag, Gary, Perry, Terry, Loma Linda, Guns, outdoors, pictures, hunting, Boncoo, Scout, Gale, Elsie, and Barton.

Another mystery person is presented in this week's paper. Clues may be found in the "Who's Who" announcement elsewhere in the paper and in advertising throughout the issue.

The entry slip should then be deposited in a box at one of the four business houses designated for this week's contest: Pettyjohn's Farm and Builders Supply, C. A. Ruggles Insurance, Ione Chevron Station, or Mil-Ladies Apparel.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Keithley returned to Heppner June 18 to make their home after living the past three years in Condon. Keithley will again be a member of the sales staff at Heppner Auto Sales, with whom he had been associated for 17 years before moving to Condon. They are living at their home on West Center, formerly rented by the Charles McKinnon family before they moved to John Day last month.

Heppner's Daily Water Consumption One Million Gallons, Council Hears

Heppner's water system has been pumping at the rate of 700 gallons per minute to supply needs during the warm weather. Superintendent Vic Groshens reported to the city council at the regular meeting Monday night. This is approximately one million gallons per day.

Attorney P. W. Mahoney told the council that he recalled during his time on the council years ago, when the city was about the same population, water consumption was only about 250,000 gallons per day.

One councilman then remarked with a smile, "Our people are a lot cleaner now!"

Groshens reported that he and city crews had about stopped a leak that was causing trouble at the main reservoir.

"In 24 hours it wouldn't leak a five gallon can full," he said. Groshens told of a plan to build a concrete block bulwark on the exposed side of the reservoir with dirt fill in order to provide insulation for the reservoir. Some cracks have developed because of the expansion and contraction from heat and cold, he said.

The superintendent said that water was within 2 1/2 feet of the top of the reservoir Saturday despite the demands of the hot weather.

At the same time the council embarked on a discussion of furnishing water to outlying areas for pasture irrigation. It seemed to be the consensus that the city should no longer furnish water for this purpose.

It was pointed out that in the summer months it is difficult to keep up with domestic demands. Groshens said that an application has been received to run a 1-inch line to supply water for pasture irrigation.

He pointed out, however, that the rate structure is set up in such a manner that a person can irrigate a pasture cheaper than a home owner can obtain water for domestic use.

Groshens said that it had been necessary to limit watering the grounds at the high school to night irrigation, and he said the lawn there is "beginning to suffer."

Mayor W. C. Rosewall said he thought the council should investigate the possibility of digging another well at some time in the future. Groshens said that the present main from the wells is handling all the water it can take. However, an investigation will be made into the costs of pumping and into the rate structure to help plan future needs and policies.

City Recorder Elaine George reported that she had heard many compliments on parallel parking on Willow street and "not a single complaint." Some councilmen reported in the same vein, and one said that some had suggested that Main street be converted to parallel parking. The suggestion, however, was not seriously discussed at the Monday meeting.

Chief Sworn In

Police Chief Glen Kolkhorst, formerly of Coos Bay, was present at his first meeting, and he was sworn in to office by Attorney Mahoney. Bert Corbin, recently hired as a police officer, also took the oath of office.

Requests were presented for two new street lights, one to be located near the Bud Peck residence on East Linden Way and another to be near the Cecilia Auto Wrecking Yard on Riverside. After some discussion, a motion was passed that the lights be installed.

Ceglia Makes Plea

John Ceglia, owner of the wrecking yard, was present at the meeting and asked to address the council. He made a plea for all property owners to "clean up the city" and urged the council to spur such a move. Ceglia said that he realized the wrecking yard had been target of some complaints in the past but said that he had been working to make it "look nice."

He said that there would be a "lot of wrecked cars that would be scattered around the city," if he didn't pick them up and haul them to the yard.

Ceglia said that if the city ever feels that he is not doing right at his yard or has any complaint about it, the city officials should come to him and tell him so.

Zone Fee Set

The council passed a motion setting fees for applicants for variances, conditional uses, or amendments to the zoning ordinance. The fee is set at $5 plus costs.

The zoning ordinance had provided for such a fee but the amount had never been set.

At the same time, the council asked that Emile Groshens and John Lane be asked to apply for variances in order that their building permits might be acted upon.

When their applications were first received, the council could not grant them because of some provisions in the ordinance. Subsequently, however, the council passed an amendment to the ordinance which gives it discretionary powers in granting variances. Since this amendment is now passed, the council asked for the application for the variances in order that it may act on the building applications.

The U. S. Forest Service requested permission to extend a sidewalk north from the Gilliam and Bisbee building 90 feet, along Main street, tapering down from 12 feet to 6 feet. Attorney Mahoney pointed out that an ordinance now on record requires 12 ft. walks to a point where August street would intersect with Main, if August extended through the block.

It was determined that it will be necessary to amend the ordinance to make it possible for the walk to be built, but the councilmen expressed favor for the amendment because they believe a 6 ft. sidewalk will be adequate for the area to be served.

The city attorney was authorized to draw up an amendment on the matter.

Garnishment Policy Set

Policy of giving the city superintendent and police chief power to dismiss employees whose wages have been garnished, when the garnishments have been reduced to judgments, was set by the council.

Before the dismissal is effective, however, the superintendent or chief must check the status of the garnishment with the city attorney to see that it is under execution and therefore represents a valid case of non-payment.

Permission was given officials of the Sidewalk Bazaar to rope off a block of Willow Street between Chase and Main for a program Saturday morning. Permission was also given to hood parking meters for two days—Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. George reported that 11 applications have been received for police chief. The council requested that she answer each application and inform the writer that the position is filled.

Contract with Marlon Green to repair parking meters for the city at $50 per month an increase from $5 per month, was approved.

Building permit for G. E. Niskander, $500, to build porch and roof, was granted.

A resolution adopting the 1967-68 city budget and providing for levying necessary taxes was passed.
