Garrett Marshal For Westward Ho!

The grand marshal of the Round-Up Westward Ho! parade in Pendleton this year will be Sam Garrett of Fallbrook, Calif. The 75-year old former all-around cowboy is not new to the Pendleton Round-Up, having won the steer bulldogging here in 1914. The Westward Ho! parade is Friday morning of Round-Up, which officially opens at 1:15 p.m., September 13 for a four-day run.

Westward Ho! parade chairman Jack Howard said Garrett is well-known to rodeo fans, having won the world's championship trick roping title seven times at the Cheyenne Frontier celebration as well as several other cowboy awards. Garrett has performed his trick roping acts in many foreign countries as well as in the United States. Among his performances he lists a roping act with Will Rogers in London; featured with Barnum and Bailey Circus in Madison Square Garden; featured with Hagenbeck-Wallace winter circus, and was a member of three leading wild west shows of America—the Buffalo Bill, the 101 Ranch, and Pawnee Bill's wild west shows.
