Mother of Heppner Woman Gets Honors As Kitchen Queen

If good cooking traits run in the family, Mrs. Dale Holland, Heppner, should come by it naturally. She received the good news last week that her mother, Mrs. Ralph Witcher of Junction City had been named the 1967 "Queen of the Kitchen" at the Oregon State Fair.

The Holland family had visited the Witcher home the week previous to the fair and Mrs. Holland found her mother "cooking like mad" to get the large variety of delicious foods ready for judging in the open class competition. Mrs. Witcher had previously been the Kitchen Queen of Lane County, and runner-up to the State Queen in 1966, so she was well experienced in what it takes to be a champion.

Barrel Racing Error Corrected

Supt. Fred Mankin of the county horse show has called attention to an error in recording the results of barrel racing at the show, which came about through a tie for first place.

Marianne Pettyjohn and Gale Makom tied for first with a time of 18.4. The tie was broken with a flip of the coin which gave Miss Pettyjohn first. She received a saddle bag as a prize, donated by Supt. Mankin. Miss Makom received a blanket as a prize that had been offered for second place by the First National Bank, Heppner Branch.

Patti Pettyjohn was third with a time of 19.2. The story in last week's paper did not recognize the first place tie because of the placings listed in the record book. It was also incorrectly stated that Miss Pettyjohn received a saddle blanket for first, instead of the saddle bag.
