Bids Open Soon On Water Tank

(Held over from last week)

By MARY LEE MARLOW

BOARDMAN — Mayor Dewey West reported on the water storage tank program Tuesday night of last week at the regular monthly meeting of the city council.

Bids are still being received for an overhead tank and will be opened September 21.

Bids will also be opened that day to furnish and install an emergency gasoline engine with clutch assembly for the city hall well.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Herbst are the parents of a 7 lb., 9 1/4 oz. son, born September 6 at the Good Shepherd hospital in Hermiston. He has been named Patrick Kenneth. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Williams of Portland, and Mrs. Pauline Herbst of Oregon City. Great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ewald Wendler of Portland. Herbst is the new coach at Riverside High school.

Mrs. Glen Carpenter was honored on the occasion of her birthday last Friday when a group of friends called at her home at noon for a surprise luncheon party. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Charles Andereg and Mrs. Nate Macomber of Pendleton; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ball, Sr., Mrs. Ralph Earwood and Mrs. Frank Marlow.

St. Patrick's Altar Society met last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Steve Wilkie to form catechism classes for the coming year. Teachers include Mrs. Juanita Proctor of Irigoin, second grade; Mrs. Gunnar Skoubo third; Mrs. Shirley Zielinski, fourth; Mrs. Dennis Gronquist, fifth; Mrs. Wilkie, sixth and seventh. The fourth and fifth grade classes will be held here and the others at Irigoin.

The Ladies Aid Society of Community Church met last week at the church with Mrs. Seth Russell as hostess. The ladies report that the kitchen in the new church is almost completed and will be finished by September 23.

Another shipment of clothes is to be sent to the Rescue Mission in Walla Walla, Wash., and anyone having any to send should take them to the church. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Glen Carpenter October 4, at 2 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Harding and daughter Faye Disbrow of Sacramento, Calif., were overnight visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Jenkins Saturday on their way to Moscow, Idaho.

Slowpoke Drivers Now Face Penalty

Slowpoke drivers who refuse to let other drivers pass now face a penalty of up to $100 or 10 days imprisonment.

The new law, which took effect Wednesday, September 13, requires slow moving vehicles on two-lane roads to pull over at the first opportunity and let faster traffic pass. On multi-lane highways, such as freeways, slow moving vehicles must stay in the right lane—leaving the left lane clear for cars moving at faster speeds.

How do you know if you're a slow driver? Holly Holcomb, Superintendent of the Oregon State Police, says, "You will probably be considered a slow moving vehicle anytime you travel slower than the normal flow of traffic and cause a string of cars to pile up behind you. When this happens, it's time to pull over and let faster traffic pass you at the first safe spot to do so."

Holcomb said he expects the new law to curb the great number of accidents that occur when other drivers become impatient and take foolish chances in passing the slow driver.

"While the slow driver doesn't always become involved in accidents himself," said Holcomb, "he does cause other drivers to have accidents."

The new law gives the slow driver a choice: He can drive with the prevailing speed of the other traffic, or he can pull over to let traffic pass.

where Miss Disbrow will enter University of Idaho.

Renee, Ricky and Rena Ely have returned to their home in Seattle, Wash., after spending the summer months here at the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Ely.

P. I. Exposition Sets Rodeo Finals Starting Sept. 29

Rodeo contestants from the Northwest's own cattle country, many of them range riding cowboys in their daily occupations, will show their high country style of rodeo at the Pacific International Livestock Exposition in North Portland Sept. 29 through October 7.

The second running of the Northwest Finals Rodeo—bringing together top season money winners of the Northwest Rodeo Association and the Idaho Cow-boys Association—is the action entertainment for the huge livestock show set for the 11 covered acres of the Multnomah County Exposition Center, formerly the P-I Building.

In its debut last year the Northwest Finals showed P-I visitors a do-or-die rodeo they had forgotten existed. The cowboys are pitted against the best rodeo stock selected from the strings of NRA and ICA stock contractors.

Both the Northwest Rodeo Association and the Idaho Cow-boys Association have grown greatly in participants and numbers of rodeos staged in the past few years. About 350 cowboys are participating this year in the NRA's 35 rodeos before the finals in North Portland.

Dick Kelly of Lowden, Wash., a roper and bulldogger, is present leader for all-around cowboy in the NRA. Lonnie Wright of Caldwell, Idaho, a roper and bull rider, leads in the Idaho association.

The rodeo events are interspersed with horse show action in 12 arena show performances scheduled.

The P-I's livestock areas will shelter more than 3,000 animals in open, 4-H and FFA classes. Other areas of the 11 acres will offer a flower show, a poultry and pet stock show and extensive commercial and educational exhibits.
