John Ceglias Cover 9000 Miles on Trip

Mr. and Mrs. John Ceglia covered 9,000 miles on their trip to Long Island, N. Y., and back after leaving several weeks ago to visit his father at Locust Valley, Long Island.

The Ceglias' son, John Jr., who went east with them, remained in Boston, Mass., with a friend, John Stratton, formerly of Heppner. Mrs. Ceglia stopped off at Las Vegas, Nev., on the return trip and will spend a week or two there visiting her sister before returning to Heppner by train.

The Ceglias, with father and son trading off on driving, made the trip to New York in 60 hours. They had no trouble on the complete trip—not even a flat tire, Ceglia said. John, Sr., arrived back in Heppner early Sunday morning.

The family stopped in Louisville, Ky., to see Mrs. Ceglia's aunts. In New York, they visited Ceglia's 81-year-old father who was very happy to see them. They also attended the wedding of Ceglia's niece in Glenhead, Long Island.

On the first day of the trip they drove with windows down through the northwestern part of the country with its warm weather, but the windows were up through the rest of the trip. At Pittsburgh, Pa., they hit rain, and it continued raining until they had been in New York for three days.

On the last leg of the trip, Ceglia stopped in Lovelock, Nev., to visit a lifelong friend, Walter Witkowski, whom he had known as a youth in New York. Before leaving the east, the family sent a postal card to Mrs. Ceglia's sister in Las Vegas as they arrived there before the card reached the sister, driving virtually non-stop.

Warren Plocharsky helped at Ceglia's Shop and Wrecking Yard during their absence. Ceglia said that they were glad they made the trip to see his father whose health is failing.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Lincecum of Lakeview renewed some old acquaintances and made some new friends here last Thursday during their visit. They came to see their daughter, Terry Lincecum, art instructor, and among others visited was a long-time friend Norman Supple at First National Bank. Mrs. Lincecum, a Soroptimist, was a luncheon guest of the Heppner Soroptimist club. They continued on to Pendleton to enjoy activities of the Round-Up.

Church Invites Youth To 'Kids Krusade'
