

Safety Speaker Talks at Kinzua On Heart Disease

By VIRGINIA KESLO

(Held over from last week)
KINZUA—A dinner meeting Thursday evening, October 12, at Jeffmore Hall, sponsored by the Timber Operators Safety Council, was attended by about 150 persons. After the roast beef dinner, Dick Sargent, acting chairman for the Kinzua safety chapter, introduced F. J. Muscutt of the Timber Operators Safety Division, Allen Nistad, General Manager of Kinzua Corporation, and the main speaker, Mr. Howard J. Stroud, Executive Director for the Oregon State Heart Association in Portland.

Stroud gave an interesting talk about the incidence of heart disease, the problems of heart disease in industry, new developments in research, and the age levels most affected by heart disease.

The tables were gaily decorated with pumpkins, candles, and colorful leaves carrying out the fall season.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayland Hyatt were the hosts Friday evening to a birthday slumber party for their daughter, Theresa, who is 12. Helping Theresa celebrate were Connie Hoover, Sara Bowman, Leah Lane, Beth Conklin, Karen Robinson, Linda Rice, and Daryl Asher.

Mrs. Ed Wham and daughter Vicki and Mrs. Ernie Wall were in the Dalles Thursday on business. They were accompanied back to Kinzua by Mrs. Wall's mother, Mrs. Peter Bible of Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Jiggs Bowman and family took their son Vic to Portland Sunday from where he left Monday for Fort Lewis to take his basic training with the U. S. Army.

Hunting in this area are Mr. and Mrs. George Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Dee Pattee of Vernonia. They are camped at the old gun club.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Clarke and family of Terrebonne spent Sunday here visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Keller and family.

Week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Verlin Conner were Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Conner and infant son Daniel, Jr., of Albany, and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Conner of Hermiston.

Pvt. Earl A. Perkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Perkins, was graduated from basic training at Fort Lewis, Wash., on October 6. Earl had received a trophy for high basic rifle marksmanship and was awarded an experts badge. He was also selected for leadership school. A plaque naming Earl and Kinzua, Ore., and his new record was placed on the wall of Co. A, 2nd Bn. 28DE. He set new company and battalion records. After graduation he flew immediately to Fort Sam Houston, Texas, to enter leadership school before entering school for combat medical service.

The Friendship club was entertained Wednesday evening at the grade school with Doris Stubblefield as hostess. High was won by Pat Van Arsdale, low by Deena Reid, and floating by Sharon Bell and Becky Wright. Others playing were Rose Merry Nelson, Dinah Jackson, Terry Todd, Betty Murdock, Patsy McMinn, Sue Mattison, and Carol Norris.

Mrs. Daniel Bell went to Arlington Thursday morning where she met Mrs. Jack Bell and children and Mrs. Kenneth Robbins, and son Joe of Portland. Mrs. Bell came on to Kinzua and Camp 5 to visit with

CRISIS IN OUR CITIES:

What Rural America Can Do About It

Since its early days, our nation has periodically faced a crisis in its cities.

And, since the early days, the root cause has been the same . . . people flocking to the cities in search of something better . . . people leaving areas of little opportunity in search of fulfillment for themselves and their children.

In earlier times, the people came from overseas. Nearly all of them came from the land which no longer provided them with a living.

Today the people who fill our cities in search of a better life . . . nearly 600,000 of them a year . . . come from our own countryside, nearly all of them from the land which no longer offers them a living.

The fact is, as Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and other informed government officials have noted, that 70% of our nation's population is crowded into one percent of our land . . . many of them crowded into space covered by brick and mortar and macadam, over-laden with smog-filled air . . . treeless, flowerless, hopeless.

They are the victims of a quiet revolution in agriculture which no longer needs the labor of large numbers of human beings to produce the vast quantities of food and fiber we provide for the world. They are today's landless immigrants who formed our city ghettos and slums of generations past.

The people of rural America, and America's rural electrics, believe this view of the past and of the present contains the seeds of our future . . . a brighter, more productive future for the people of the cities and the people in the rural areas.

We believe it is time we use one of our nation's greatest assets . . . our uncrowded countryside . . . to help solve the problem which concerns us all.

Rural America boasts more than space. It has fresh air and sun and sky and water. It has room for kids to run barefoot through grass covered with early morning dew, hills covered with clean snow for sleds and skis, fields for people and dogs to romp in.

And it has more.

In the towns and villages of rural America there are uncrowded streets and sidewalks. There is electric power and transportation. There are good roads to bring the products of hard-working people to the great market places.

What rural America lacks are job opportunities. Of the nearly 14 million new jobs created in our country in the past 15 years, few were created in rural areas. Yet polls say half our population would like to live and work in rural areas.

We believe that unless we bend our efforts to the development of rural America, we will fail to solve the problems of our cities. Unless we stem the tide of migration from the country to the city that puts more and more people into less and less space, we will have ignored our greatest asset in meeting one of our gravest problems.

We must start now to develop job opportunities, adequate hospitals and medical facilities, better schools and theaters and libraries, better water and sewer systems, and improved public services and facilities for industry in our rural areas. With them, rural America can meet the job hunger of its own people. It can provide the space and living room city people so desperately seek.

The nation's rural electrics view with optimism the efforts of our nation's leaders to restore the balance between rural and urban America. We pledge our support and the continuation of our unstinting effort. We invite the participation and cooperation of all people concerned about the future of our country, regardless of where they live.

There is, after all, only one nation, and we are all part of it.
