U of O Dads Day Slated March 2

Seminars dealing with important aspects of student life on campus will highlight the 41st annual University of Oregon Dads Day Saturday, March 2, according to John L. Luvaas, Eugene, president of the Oregon Dads Club.

Six discussion groups have been scheduled during the morning. Topics include classroom teaching, the costs of a college education, the "condition of the University," athletics, student power and the role and future of fraternities and sororities.

Reports from the various discussion groups will be heard during the annual meeting of the Oregon Dads club which will also see election of new officers.

Following lunch, dads will have a chance to visit student living organizations, attend the Oregon-Washington basketball game or attend the Oregon-Oak Bay Wanderers, B. C., rugby match.

An open house and evening of entertainment is planned for that evening in the Erb Memorial Union.
