Book Based on War Incident is Reviewed

Mrs. George Currin was hostess at her home for members of the Bookworms club when they met for their regular meeting, Tuesday, March 12.

Special guests for the evening were Mrs. Harold Becket and Mrs. W. E. Hughes, who, along with the nine members present, enjoyed a review of the book, "Michel, Michel," by Robert Lewis which was presented by Mrs. Harold Erwin.

The story is of a young Jewish boy, who was raised at a Catholic orphanage during World War II by a nurse, who became fond of him. When two aunts come to claim the child, the nurse refuses to relinquish custody of him, and the case is taken into court to determine who rightfully can claim the child.

The story is of a true historical incident, and characters in the book are fictionalized.

After a business meeting and book review, refreshments were served to the guests by the hostess, Mrs. Currin.
