Columbia River 'Big Deal,' Says Commission Head

obtained from the river's flow. The Pacific Northwest River Basins Commission recognizes the need for coordinating water project plans to the end that a continuing supply of water will be available for all uses, including domestic and industrial uses, for irrigation, fish and wildlife habitat, and for power, transportation, and recreational purposes.

"We are interested in power Mrs. Lena Kelly has returned after a recent visit in Salem with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pfeil, and her brother, R. E. Hughes, also of that city. From there, she traveled on to McMinnville to visit with Mr. and Mrs. Don Hevener, who later accompanied her to Heppner. Mrs. Hevener is Mrs. Kelly's granddaughter.

only to the extent that it involves water," he said, apparently referring to such proposals as thermal nuclear plants. The commission's interest in them would be relative to the possible pollution of the rivers and also in the use of their water effluent for possible irrigation.

A potential project of tremendous possibility is located across the river from Boardman where off-stream storage capacity in the Horse Heaven country would be almost as much as Grand Coulee dam.

"There would be few relocation problems here," the speaker said. A reservoir there is envisioned as holding possibly 4,000,000 acre feet of water, only a million less than Grand Coulee.

"The question is: 'Will it hold water?'" Hodde said. The commission is now making geological studies to seek to answer this question. He also mentioned the Juniper Canyon area in Morrow county as a possible storage area but said that it would be considerably smaller.

It has been talked of using Juniper Canyon as a pond from a nuclear plant and taking the water for irrigation.

As to the Horse Heaven proposal, Hodde said that it is even being talked that there is some possibility of using it as an equalizing reservoir for this side of the river, piping the water under the river.

"This may seem far-fetched, but it might be cheaper than developing storage here," he said.

Rockhound Corner

By ELEANOR GONTY

Due to conflicting dates in February, the Morrow County Gem and Mineral club had two meetings in March, the last one held Saturday evening, March 23, in the rooms owned by Mr. and Mrs. Pete McMurtry.

Mrs. George Miller announced the date of the Spring Pow Wow, which is the second weekend in April. This is open only to regular members and this year Woody Wright will be host for the outing.

Mrs. Miller reviewed the discussion on agates. Mrs. Rachel Harnett gave a report on agatized wood and fire agate, and Ed Gonty reported on the blood stone, displaying rings of the stone which were loaned by Randall Peterson. Walt Edger discussed the iris agate and also displayed a polished slab, loaned by George Miller.

Guest was Stanley Robinson, and door prize was won by Avery Taylor.

Mrs. Miller briefly outlined some field trips for the club to consider for the last Sunday in April. Next club meeting is planned for Saturday evening, April 20, at 7:30 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. McMurtry provided the coffee and spiced cider, and other refreshments were brought by Mr. and Mrs. Gonty.

Medicare Signup Due

April 1 is the deadline to enroll in the Medicare program, Vernon A. Welo, district manager of the Social Security office in La Grande, states. The deadline applies to those who are now 65 or older and who missed their first chance to enroll in the program.

Morrow county residents who previously did not sign for Medicare are now eligible to enroll. If they do not sign up by April 1, they will not have another opportunity until the next enrollment period which is scheduled for January through March of 1969, Welo said.
