Getting Most of Beef Is Program Chosen For Extension Study

Home Extension units in Umatilla and Morrow counties will study the lesson "Getting the Most from Beef" at their May meetings, reports County Home Agent Molly Saul. Both experienced and inexperienced homemakers will benefit from the lessons, as they will learn how to identify the many cuts of beef, and how to cook and serve the different cuts accordingly.

Buying and preparing meat has been selected for a two-year study in Home Extension programs throughout the county. Part of this program included the recent meat buying demonstrations presented by Sandra Brookover, consumer meat specialist from the USDA. Next year there will be a follow-up meat cookery and meat selection study lesson for all units.

These leaders will present the lesson in Umatilla and Morrow counties at regularly scheduled unit meetings. Leaders in this area who are trained to teach the project are Mrs. John Graves, Heppner, Mrs. William E. Graybeal, Mrs. Walter Hanschar, and Mrs. M. Sade, Irrigon.

Club Enjoys Program On History of Music

Members of the Heppner Mothers' club heard an enjoyable program presented by Rev. Dirk Rinehart, as club members gathered for the May meeting at the home of Mrs. LaVerne Keithley.

Rev. Rinehart presented a program on the history and expression of music of today and yesterday, beginning with the history of folk and pop music in the early 1940's, and stating that folk music is generally carried on generation after generation. He said that some folk music of today is in the form of social protests, being written by angry young men who see something wrong with the world and use this way of expressing their protest.

Those present listened to several ballads, sung by popular young artists, that expressed a message of protest.

Rev. Rinehart said that popular music has taken on new dimensions in the last few years, and that some music appreciated by today's youth can be called social commentary, as it often reflects problems, loneliness and non-communication between parents and children.

Following the program, the meeting was opened by president Marion Abrams. Members answered roll call by presenting ideas for subjects for future programs.

New business included discussion and decision of members to donate a sum of money to Camp Meadowood Springs special camp. Plans are being formed for Mother's club participation in the Sidewalk Bazaar, and Mrs. Ken Methvin has been named chairman of the proposed snow cone booth. Club members are invited to attend a home extension program to be presented May 15 at 1 p.m., at the fair pavilion and entitled, "Accessories in the home."

A fair booth will be sponsored by the club, with chairman and details to be decided at a later meeting.

Mrs. Jim Wishart, secretary of the club for the past year, was presented a farewell gift from the group. She and her family will move from Heppner at the close of the school term.
