BEEF PRODUCERS of Oregon are asking over 1,500 retail grocers in the state to display red, white and blue decals, shown above, in campaign to fight heavy increase of foreign beef in domestic market. Cattlemen are also enlisting support of Oregon housewives, "FOR YOUR FAMILY'S SAKE . . . BUY BEEF PRODUCED ONLY IN THE USA", pointing out that domestic beef is 100% inspected, tastier, and more nutritious. Campaign will continue for three months and is hoped, spread to other states.

Morse Supports Domestic Beef

Senator Wayne Morse, D-Ore., issued the following statement today: "After talking with Oregon cattlemen in Eastern Oregon, I wish to lend my wholehearted support to the effort being made by the Oregon Beef Council and the Oregon Cattlemen's Association to persuade the American housewife to buy U. S. beef products for her family.

"Our farmers need all the help they can get to arrange orderly marketing of their cattle, and in the long run a stable market for beef can be in the best interests of farmer and consumer alike. "Further, this effort is one based upon democratic principles. No legal compulsion is involved, and the effort will stand or fall on the case the cattlemen make to the consumer. I applaud the industry for its appeal to the housewife, for it is she who will cast the family vote at the meat counter. "It is a matter of record that I have consistently supported efforts of our farmers and cattlemen to improve their position at the bargaining table, since I believe they are entitled to a fair return on their investments in land and labor at least equivalent to that enjoyed by other economic groups."

Mann Declares 1 1/2% Tax Measure Could Hike Levy

Representative Irvin Mann, Stanfield, warned a Milton-Freewater audience recently that the passage of the proposed 1 1/2% property tax limitation measure could raise property taxes rather than reduce them. He said later that he has received a legal opinion from Robert Lundy, legislative counsel, Salem, verifying this fear.

Mann told the Milton-Freewater Republican Women's club the constitutional amendment being circulated says the limitation "shall not apply" to levies for bonded indebtedness and levies where the voters have voted to exceed the limitation, leaving the implication that it did apply only to all other levies than these. These other levies could be raised at will within the 1 1/2% limit.

In most tax districts the levies other than schools do not approach the 1 1/2% figure. Noting that the measure repeals the 6% limitation and eliminates tax bases as they are now known, Mann said, "It is a foregone conclusion that when people see what the limitation does to our schools they'll vote to allow schools to exceed the limitation, leaving all other levies subject to practically no control."

Performs in Opera

A climax for Kathy Melby at the end of her freshman year at Pacific University was the honor of performing as one of the dancers in the opera production "Rigoletto" staged by Portland Opera company in the newly reopened Portland Civic Auditorium. She was one of eight college students in modern dance selected for the performances, May 9-12, appearing in colorful numbers with the chorus. She returned to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Melby, on May 13 for summer vacation.
