California Ceremony Unites Sgt. Chitty And Mary Beth Arr

Miss Mary Beth Arr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett G. Arr, of Huntington Beach, Calif., was united in marriage to Sgt. Glenn J. Chitty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin L. Chitty of Heppner, on Saturday, August 24.

The double ring ceremony was read at 11:30 a.m. by the Rev. Father Jennings at Blessed Sacrament church in Westminster, Calif. Floral decorations of white gladioli and snapdragons with pale pink carnations carried out the chosen wedding colors. Large white taffeta bows marked the bridal aisle.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was attired in a white lace over satin empire-styled gown with long matching train; her elbow length lace veil was attached to a small tiara crown. She carried a white orchid, surrounded by white carnations.

Maid of honor was Miss Debbie Spitzer and bridesmaids were Misses Sue Simmins and "Hank" Claton, friends of the bride. They wore pink chiffon and taffeta floor-length gowns, long white gloves, and head-dresses of pink bows surrounded by pink net falls. All carried pink carnation shower bouquets.

Serving as best man was Jerry Boran, friend of the groom who had previously served with him in Vietnam.

Ushers were Philip Kamyscek and Dennis Rude, U. S. Marine friends of the groom. Shelley Finck attended as flower girl and Chris Giardinie served as ring bearer.

Traditional wedding selections were played by Mrs. Roz Giardinie, organist. Mrs. Arr, mother of the bride, chose to wear a rose silk shantung sheath with matching lace coat and accessories. Mrs. Chitty, mother of the groom, attended in an aqua linen sheath with white accessories.

A wedding reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents in Huntington Beach. A six-tiered wedding cake centered the bride's table. Guests were served on the patio from a buffet luncheon table, decorated with pink and white floral arrangements.

Before leaving on their wedding trip, the bride changed to a bright pink shantung suit with white accessories. On their honeymoon to Northern California and in Oregon, they combined sight-seeing with visiting relatives and friends.

They are now residing in San Clemente, Calif. The groom attended schools in Maine and in Oregon, and was a graduate of the Enterprise High school. He has been in the U. S. Marines for the past three years, serving in California and Vietnam.

The bride is a graduate of Marina High school in Huntington Beach.

Among their out-of-town guests was Joseph E. Lizotte, grandfather of the groom, of Salem, Mass. Guests also attended from Oklahoma, Oregon, Michigan and Wisconsin.

Attending the guest book was Miss Kay Munkers. Among the several out of town guests attending the party were Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sharrard of Woodburn, brother of Mrs. Munkers; a niece, Mrs. Michael Benson and son of Woodburn; Mr. and Mrs. Francis Sharrard, Arlington, another brother of Mrs. Munkers; Mrs. Lila Lee Osborne, Arlington; Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Ries, Pilot Rock, long time friends of the couple who were married September 8, 1943, in Goldendale, Wn., in a double wedding ceremony with the honored couple; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Sherer, Echo; Mr. and Mrs. Chadwick, and Mrs. Helen Wainscott, all of Pendleton.

Name Corrected In Death Story

In a recent story in The Gazette-Times concerning the death of Mrs. Nira Minor Potter, who was born on Rhea Creek near Heppner on October 6, 1873, an error was made in spelling of the name of one of the survivors. Mrs. Potter's daughter is Mrs. Harry M. Bouvy of Portland. Her name incorrectly appeared as "Bouby" in the story, and O. G. Crawford, once a long time resident of Heppner and former Gazette-Times editor, wrote to call attention to the error.

"Dr. Harry M. Bouvy, formerly of La Grande, was an eye, ear and throat specialist and administered to residents of Northeastern Oregon for many years," Crawford wrote from his home in Lincoln City.

Mrs. Potter died in Portland at age 94, and the Gazette-Times took its information (and the incorrect spelling) from The Oregonian.

TO SAVE OUR CITIES

We must have Rural-Urban balance

There is something we can do about the crisis that faces every big city in America. What we can do is to use our greatest resource—space—to reverse the tide of unhappy refugees from the countryside that flows to the streets and sidewalks (and slums and ghettos) of the city.

Because these refugees are the victims of a quiet revolution in agricultural technology rather than of war . . . because they travel by ones and twos and threes in cars and buses . . . because they disappear into city warrens and by-ways rather than refugee camps, they are unseen and unheeded until they pour forth into the streets in violent protest.

Riots in the cities begin with hungry children on land that has lost its promise. They and their parents move from the bleak areas of the countryside to the cities in search of another promise.

But the cities are already over-crowded, straining to cope with their own growth. There is little room and less opportunity for those who are poorly-schooled, without modern skills, unequipped to meet the city on its own terms.

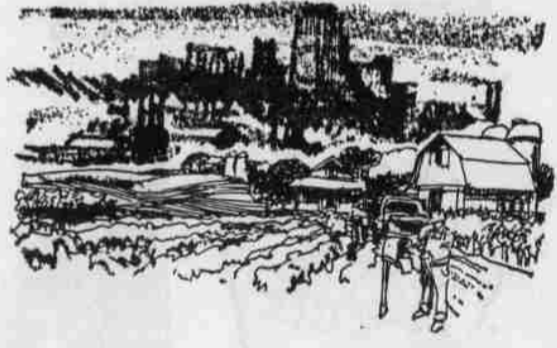

In many areas of rural America, rural electric have achieved great success in developing local resources of space and people. They have helped create home-town industries providing home-town jobs with home-town payrolls.

But the job is bigger than one group. The urgency of the problem requires the effort of us all, acting in concert with Federal, state and local officials as well as the private organizations in the cities and the rural areas.

We can—and we must—restore the promise to the land. We must create the job opportunities in the small towns and rural areas. We must develop the instruments of modern living—more decent housing, more hospitals and medical facilities, better schools and libraries, improved water supplies and sewage facilities, adequate public services—that will attract and hold people who yearn for space to call their own.

America's rural electric have been heartened by the response of the nation to their initial efforts. We look forward with high hopes to the efforts of our nation's leaders to restore the rural-urban balance in people and in opportunity. We offer our unstinting cooperation and all our resources of energy and determination in this effort.

The answer to what will we do with the next 100 million people lies in the rural-urban balance. There is nowhere else to go.
