Koreans Visit Grain Division

A team of South Korean flour millers visiting in the Portland area September 24-26 observed grain inspection procedures followed by the Oregon Department of Agriculture, during their stay.
 The visitors, here under the auspices of the Western Wheat Associates, USA, Inc., had the program of the grain division explained by the division chief, Allen Plummer, during an orientation session Tuesday following a luncheon at which one of the guests was Director of Agriculture Walter Leth. They also visited the department's grain laboratories and, while there, had an opportunity to talk with grain samplers, weighers, inspectors and supervisory personnel.
