Wheel, Heppner Barber Shop, Hamlin's Sport Shop, Heppner Auto Sales, Kinzua Corporation, Heppner Lumber Co., Bank of Eastern Oregon, Heppner TV, Inc., Rene's Beauty Shop, Farley Motor Co., Jeanne's Beauty Shop, Heppner Branch First National Bank, Herman Green, Jerry's Shell, Flatt's Truck, and Heppner Cleaners.

Some of the above firms will also register entrants for the television set starting Monday, December 2, and continuing until noon, Saturday, December 7.

Sales Planned

Merchants have been planning a long time for this event, Mrs. Gardner states, and her committee has been working especially hard to make this week-end outstanding for the public. Several stores have delayed long-planned sales to coincide with opening of the Christmas shopping season. Gonty's is planning the biggest sale in the history of the long-established shoe store.

Merchants offer a great variety of gift merchandise for the coming holiday season and they are making every effort to see that the public enjoys shopping here.

Much of this paper is devoted to advertising for the Christmas Opening, particularly in the second section which also gives additional details of the event.

Decorations Planned

Harley Young, manager of Columbia Basin Electric, said that his firm expects to have Christmas lights and decorations in place for the Opening, and new Santa Claus decorations have been added this year, purchased by the Chamber of Commerce.

Through the cooperation of the U. S. Forest Service and Morrow county, it is hoped to have the downtown tree in place soon. The tree was to be procured jointly by the two agencies.

Morrow county Jaycees are assisting with arrangements for Santa.

Several other special events tie in with Christmas Opening to make an even more attractive week-end—the Jaycees' Fiddlers Contest, the Soroptimist-sponsored Turkey Hop, and others.

THOUGH THE tide of grid warfare went against their Cardinals, the Ione High cheerleaders never lost their spirit at the semi-final B-S game at Ione Saturday. Whooping it up for the Cards in front of the home cheering section are Joy Eggs, Teresa Stefani, Bonnie Akers and Kris Peterson. (G-T Photo).

for his team by running the third try for point. Two kick tries failed.

Cards Suffer Hurts

Ione, with one of its top athletes, Jim Swanson, on the bench while recuperating from a knee operation, suffered a severe blow early in the game when Sherman, its star running back suffered a gash on the temple in a pileup on the field. After some time on the sidelines while damage was being repaired, he went back into the contest at his own insistence, but apparently had suffered a mild concussion. He did a good job through the rest of the game, running back a kickoff for 85 yards, but was not as sharp in backfield maneuvering as usual.

Another blow was to come for the Cardinals when Frank Halvorsen, their lanky stalwart, was unable to play the second half because of illness. He apparently was suffering from the flu.

Down 19-7 at the start of the second quarter, the Cards came fighting back. Halvorsen scored on a 21-yard pass play with Bob Ball, the aggressive quarterback, on the pitching end. The run try for point failed, but the Cards were close again at 19-13.

McLean Gallops

Huntington wouldn't be denied. Don McLean, second of their ace backs, galloped 53 yards to hit pay dirt, and Carl Magill took a pass from Quarterback Chuck McCoy for the point, and it was 26-13.

As the clock ticked towards halftime, Sherman took Huntington's kickoff and though still somewhat stunned from the blow to his head, started on the 15 and gave a brilliant display of broken field running. He sidestepped, swerved, cut and dashed his way for 85 yards, and Ione's lightning flashed again. Halvorsen ran the point, and the Cards were just six behind, 26-20. Hope surged through the Cardinals' partisan ranks.

But it didn't take long for the Locomotives to equalize Sherman's thrilling TD. McCoy passed to Cimmiyotti on a 26-yard play, making it 32-20. The pass try for point failed, but the visitors went into the dressing rooms at halftime with the 12 point bulge.

Fourth Down Plays Hurt

Much of the Locomotives' scoring in the second half came when Ione was forced into a "catch-up" situation. They gambled on fourth down with long yardage deep in their own territory several times and couldn't make it. With fine field position, Huntington took advantage of the situation and scored often, hitting the end zone three times in the third quarter and two in the fourth. Ione's only second half touchdown came in the fourth quarter as they trailed, 53 to 20. Scott Wilson grabbed a pass from Ball and went 20 yards on the aerial and run. A run try for point failed.

Huntington's second half scores were as follows:

McCoy, one yard run; David Rawls, extra point, pass from McCoy, 39-20.

McCoy, one yard run; Rawls, extra point, pass from McCoy, 46-20.

Terry Magill, 7 yard run; Mc-
