

Surprise Dinner Friday Honors Retiring Sheriff

Attorneys of Morrow county and law enforcement officers from around the state honored retiring sheriff C. J. D. Bauman with a surprise testimonial dinner at Dodge City in Boardman Friday night.

Sheriff Volney Thomas of Gilliam county used the pretext of asking Sheriff Bauman to help him serve a warrant in Boardman to get him there. Upon his arrival, Bauman was greeted by the attorneys, state police, several sheriffs from other counties, and other officials.

Herman Winter, Morrow county district attorney, was toastmaster for the event, and the members of the county bar association presented him with a camera.

Bert Lindsay of Salem, project director of the State Board of Police Standards and Training, on behalf of the Clackamas county sheriff, named Bauman as honorary Clackamas county sheriff. Lindsay is on leave of absence from the Clackamas county office to work with the state board.

Karel Hyer, also of Salem and also with the state board, presented the retiring sheriff with state certification on standards and training.

Joining the group by coincidence was a Dr. Amsdon and his wife of San Francisco, who were staying in Boardman because the storm had made it difficult to continue travel en route home from their holiday trip. Dr. Amsdon is a professor at San Francisco State, and, on invitation of the group, attended the dinner and spoke on the riots at the college.

During the evening all of those present spoke briefly and paid tribute to Bauman.

Attorneys present were District Attorney Winter, Joe Baife, Bob Abrams, and P. W. Mahoney; sheriffs included Sheriff Thomas, Sheriff Wm. F. Moore of Union county, and Sheriff C. L. (Leo) Roberts, immediate past president of the state sheriff's association, of Sherman county. County Judge Paul Jones and Deputy Sheriff Dean Gilman of Morrow county were also present.

Among state police officers were Sgt. Vern Boyer of Hermiston, Sgt. Al Pollentier and Officer Bursell, both of Arlington. City officers included Chief of Police Glen Kolkhorst and Officer Bert Corbin of Heppner and Chief of Police Bob Adams of Hermiston.

Election Slated To Grant Work On Pump Station

IRRIGON — Supplemental irrigation water for the 1969 season, for the lands under the West Extension Irrigation District, is but a few important short steps away, according to a newsletter released to patrons by Manager Maxwell Jones in December.

It is anticipated three pumps will be installed in the backwater of the Umatilla River, south and west of the City of Umatilla. The lift will be made to the canal skirting the brow of the hill above McFarland Addition.

Application for this pumping station is being processed by the Army Corps of Engineers and other necessary paper work is being completed. Bids have been advertised and are being received for the construction phase of the project with bid opening set for January 9. Contracts will not be awarded for the work, according to Jones, until an election is held authorizing the work. This election is scheduled for January 17.

Prior to the election a public meeting will be held in the multipurpose room at the A. C. Houghton school, Irrigon. At this meeting, on Wednesday, January 15, bid proposals will have been evaluated and actual cost of the necessary work will be known. Preliminary estimates fix total cost at $120,000 and annual operation and maintenance will run a maximum of $18,000, according to Jones. Also involved in the project is a government grant which will cover cost of the pumps.

Supplemental water will be assured for the 6,000 acres presently being irrigated. An additional 1,000 acres is expected to be sprinkled under a 3 to 5 year development of new acreage and a second 1,000 acres developed after this initial waiting period. Per acre cost breakdown will be discussed at the public meeting and other information will also be available concerning the much needed project.

Log Safety Code Revision Eyed

Adoption of a revision of the safety code for logging will be considered at a public hearing conducted by the Accident Prevention Division of the Workmen's Compensation Board January 17, in Portland.

The hearing will be held at 9:00 a.m. in Room 36 of the State Office Building, 1400 S. W. Fifth Avenue, Portland. A committee of 17 industry leaders from labor and management have conducted a total of 13 meetings starting on May 16, 1967 to consider the proposed revision. In addition, a series of 12 information meetings were held in the logging areas over the entire state during the past year.

The group of industry spokesmen have attempted to formulate a workable safety code which will contribute to the safety of loggers in the state, according to James E. Wiles, director of the Accident Prevention Division.

Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Cook and three children visited for four days throughout the Christmas holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Crenshaw at their home in Bend. The couple enjoyed meeting and visiting with Mrs. Cook's brother and sister and their families, whom they hadn't seen for several years.

Backing Pickup Plunges and Burns In Mishap at Dump

When Roy Magill hauled a load of trash to the city dump Saturday, he backed his pickup to the pit where the trash was to be burned, but he went too far. The 1950 model pickup went over a 15 foot drop into the pit while Magill and an unidentified passenger jumped from the vehicle unharmed.

The pickup caught fire and burned in the vertical position with the front end up.

Heppner firemen went to the scene after Magill walked to town, but the vehicle was considered a total loss.

The pit had just been dozed out by the county for the city and this made the drop deeper than usual.

Usual procedure is to dump trash into burners, and after burning, the remainder is pushed into the pit. During cold weather, however, it has been difficult to start the tractor that dozes the trash into the pit, so Kinard McDaniel, attendant, directed Magill to dump directly into the pit.

Visiting in the Salem-Eugene area during the Christmas holidays were Mr. and Mrs. Dick Carpenter and family, who traveled to Salem the Sunday before Christmas to visit with her brother, Bill Peters. The Carpenter family, accompanied by Peters, traveled on to Eugene to spend Christmas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Carpenter, and to visit family friends in the St. Paul area following the return trip home Monday, December 30, but turned back east of Portland because of icy road conditions, and made the return trip by the Santiam Pass route, through Madras, taking 10½ hours.

Ullman Nominates Three Young Men For Academy Exams

Congressman Al Ullman has nominated three young men of Morrow county, together with 35 others in the second Congressional district, for four service academies, he has announced.

Terry Peck, Heppner High school senior, is one of six nominated for one vacancy to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y. Edward Sherman of Ione High school is one of 20 nominated for two vacancies in the Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colo., and Keith Nelson also of Ione High, is one of seven nominated for one vacancy in the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.

The nominees will compete for the principal appointments by taking College Entrance Board examinations and physical examinations.

In announcing his nominations to the young men, Cong. Ullman wrote them, "It is my practice to make academy appointments through competitive selection among the most competent young men in the district seeking the assignment. On this basis it is a pleasure to offer you a nomination. This nomination will enable you to compete with other young men for the appointment."

The congressman said that he had many applicants for the nominations and advised them that if they decide not to pursue the competition, to notify him so that other applicants might be nominated.

Three young men were also nominated for exams for the Merchant Marine Academy but none of them is from this area. Congressman Ullman said that all applicants were considered on the basis of a competitive Civil Service Commission examination and the recommendations of school officials.
