

Ike Weatherford Dies in Portland

H. R. (Ike) Weatherford, 70, brother of W. W. (Bill) Weatherford of Heppner and well known here, died in Portland Saturday, April 19, after an illness of two years.

He was a cattle rancher at Enterprise where he resided for 22 years after going there from Arlington. In recent years he engaged in the real estate business. In 1953 he represented Wallowa county in the legislature as a state representative.

Funeral service was at Enterprise at 2:30 Wednesday, April 23, and graveside service will be today (Thursday), April 24, at the Arlington cemetery at 2 p.m.

He was a member of the prominent Weatherford family of Arlington and was born July 9, 1898, on the B. T. Snell homestead six miles southeast of Olex. His parents were Marion Earl Weatherford and Minnie Snell Weatherford.

A graduate of Arlington High school, he continued his education at Linfield College. On October 17, 1923, he married Edith White, who survives.

He was a member of the Elks, a deacon and trustee of the Community Church in Enterprise, and an organizing member of the Oregon Wheat League, as well as of the Oregon Farm Bureau Federation.

Besides his wife, he is survived by two sons, W. Snell Weatherford of Condon and Arthur Weatherford of Seattle; two daughters, Mrs. Judith Irwin of Longview, Wash., and Mrs. Jean Strong of Brightwood; two brothers, W. W. Weatherford of Heppner and Marion Weatherford of Arlington; and two sisters, Mrs. Edythe Newell of Fairbanks, Alaska; and Mrs. Barbara Athearn of Wickham, Wash.; and 14 grandchildren.

Frank Weatherford, another brother, preceded him in death. Frank lived at Olex and was a former representative in the legislature.

Scott McMurdo of Corvallis visited over the week-end with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. A. D. McMurdo. When he returned Monday, he took his mother with him to Portland where she will visit this week.

Blydenstein Speaks To Postal Officials At Dinner Meeting

Twenty-nine members and guests attended a dinner-meeting of postmasters from District 3, Oregon Chapter 11, National Association of Postmasters of the United States (NAPUS), held on Sunday, April 13, at the Wagon Wheel dining room.

Entertainment was furnished by Hubert and Faye Wilson of Heppner, who provided several musical selections.

In attendance were postmasters from Arlington, Irrigon, Umatilla, Hermiston, McNary, Pendleton, Adams, Athena, Milton-Freewater, Pilot Rock, Seneca, Dayville, Canyon City, Weston and Heppner.

District President Jenabelle Vincent of Weston presided over the afternoon meeting following the banquet.

Other distinguished guests included Mary Rugg, of Pilot Rock, currently State President, Oregon Chapter 11, NAPUS; Lynn Ranney, Sectional Center Postmaster of Pendleton; Marvin Carlson, Post Office Inspector from Pendleton; E. F. Sheeny, Postal Service Officer of Pendleton and Nick Blydenstein, Regional Compensation Officer of Seattle, Wash.

Mr. Blydenstein was the main speaker for the program and his subject centered on the compensation policies of the Post Office Department, their historic development and how they are currently computed and related to the various branches of the postal field service.

"As postmaster of a small community I feel very fortunate to have had a speaker of the caliber of Mr. Blydenstein visit with us," commented James H. Driscoll, Heppner postmaster.

WHEN BILL WEATHERFORD (left) was ready to present the afghan to Randy Lott Saturday night at the Band Carnival, the winner wasn't present (although he had been there). So Helen Sherman stepped up to admire it. Mrs. Edna Munkers made the beautiful afghan and donated it. (G-T Photo).

Band Carnival Gross Near $1700

(Continued from page 1) $630 for 30. After the carnival, Hedman said that it may be possible to purchase five or six more for the growing band.

Last year's gross on the carnival was about $1100. Proceeds at this year's event were the highest during the history of the event. The public thoroughly enjoyed the many attractions, the color, the activity and the fun.

Becky Phegley and David McLeod, Jr., sixth graders, were Elementary King and Queen of the event and were so crowned during the course of the evening by Arnold Raymond, PTA president. They were chosen on the basis of their pre-carnival activity in support of the event.

Mona Marshall and Bill Baker, seniors, were king and queen of the dance, chosen from Heppner High school.

Randy Lott was the winner of an afghan given during the evening.

Hedman said that the dance grossed $385, grade school children raised $221 in their advance contest, and ticket sales came to $1050.

The country store sold out quickly and all other prize merchandise was slicked out from the concessions before the evening was concluded. However, most were kept operating until the crowd broke up in the fun room and the dance took over.

King and queen candidates from the high school, not previously announced, were Linda Clough and Greg Greenup, freshmen; Gwen Drake and Ken

Baker, sophomores; and Jody Rugg and Steve McDaniel, juniors.
