

Office Procedure Taught To Girls Through Practice

Work at the Morrow county assessor's office is furnishing experience to Grace Hawk and Mona Marshall. Both girls are learning to run several types of office machines and are becoming familiar with the complex language of their jobs.

Miss Marshall is being paid through a work-study program sponsored by Blue Mountain Community College, where she will go to school next fall. The money she earns during the summer will help to pay her college expenses.

Miss Hawk is working through a work training program sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service at Oregon State University. Employment for local young people was sponsored by the Morrow County Extension Service.

Among the machines the girls have learned to operate are a graphotype, which impresses information on small tin plates; and an addressograph, which prints the information contained on the tin plates onto file folders, envelopes or papers; two models of 3M Dry Photo-copy machines; and a math calculator on which they know how to divide and multiply.

Mona and Grace have worked with tax lots of Morrow county. There is a tax lot number assigned for every parcel of land which the county is divided into. They were shown how to use appraisal cards on which are listed the measurements and values of every building in the county and the description of every piece of land.

Joyce Ritch, immediate supervisor for Grace and Mona, says, "It would take one year for a person to get completely oriented for a job like this. Even then, things change so fast that no one could ever be aware of every current aspect of the job."

In three weeks the girls have been taught enough to be at least slightly familiar with most of what happens in the office. Grace will work until the last of August when she will go back to school. She will be a senior at Heppner High school next year.

Mona will continue to work until fall term begins at BMCC. She will start a two year program then in accounting and data processing.

Grace is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Vern Nolan, Heppner. Mona's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bernard (Bud) Marshall of Heppner.

Damage is Minor In Car Accident

Minor damage was suffered Sunday morning when a vehicle hit a parked auto on S. Main in Heppner.

City police said a vehicle driven by Russell A. Grissom, 61, Heppner, hit a parked auto about 10 a.m. Sunday near the parking lot of the Heppner swimming pool.

The parked car was owned by Byron K. Hobbs, 19, 5809 S. W. Idaho, Portland.

About $50 damage to the left front fender of the Hobbs' vehicle resulted.

Service Honors Mrs. E. Gilliam Here Wednesday

Mrs. Earle (May) Gilliam, a lifetime resident of the Heppner and Lonerock communities, died at Pioneer Memorial hospital Sunday, July 13, at the age of 80. An illness had kept her hospitalized in Pendleton for several months before being admitted to the Heppner hospital to be near her family and friends.

Funeral services were held Wednesday, July 16, at 10:00 a.m. at All Saints' Episcopal church, with Rev. Dirk Rinehart officiating. Interment was in the Heppner Masonic cemetery, with Sweeney Mortuary directing the arrangements.

A daughter of pioneer parents, Mary Elizabeth Perry was born November 12, 1888, in Lonerock, to Mary Neal Perry and George Perry.

She was united in marriage to Earle Gilliam on May 1, 1913, in Heppner, and the couple had made their home here since that time. They observed their golden wedding anniversary at a church reception on May 1, 1963.

Mr. Gilliam was associated with Gilliam and Bisbee Hardware until selling the store to Claude Buschke and the late John Key in 1955. Mrs. Gilliam had spent many years as bookkeeper and helper in the store.

During her years she had been a friend to all ages in the community. She had worked faithfully in the Episcopal church of which she was a member, also in Ruth Chapter 32, Order of Eastern Star, and in Sans Souci Rebekah Lodge No. 33 for more than 50 years. She was a charter member of the Heppner Golden Age club, and active in many of the community affairs.

Besides her husband, Earle, she is survived by two sons, Jackson Gilliam, Episcopal Bishop of Montana and living in Helena, and Howard Gilliam, a county agent in Spokane, Wash.; five grandchildren, Ann, Margaret and John, and Mary Jo and Paul; also, a number of nieces and nephews.

Donations may be made to an Episcopal church memorial fund in her memory.

Sheriff Busy Over Weekend

A stolen tractor, two juveniles in possession of intoxicating beverages and three missing youths were all investigated over the week-end by the Morrow county Sheriff's office.

Sheriff John F. Mollahan said a Cub Cadet tractor valued at $1,000 was reported stolen sometime Saturday night from the Desert Lawn Cemetery. It was owned by the Irrigon cemetery district. The theft is under investigation.

Two youths were taken into custody in Heppner Saturday night and charged with possession of intoxicating beverages. Mollahan said.

Sunday night, the sheriff organized a search party for three Boardman youths who had failed to return from a boating outing on the Columbia river.

The search was called off at 11 p.m. when the three returned safely.

Counties Share Over $2 Million Trailer Benefits

Oregon counties are now sharing more than $2½ million collected in license fees from house trailer owners during the past year.

Chester W. Ott, administrator of the Motor Vehicles Division, said the annual distribution to counties reflects fees collected since May, 1968.

This year's total of $2,595,032 is an increase of $315,103 over the distribution in 1968, he said. Funds are distributed according to the trailer's location shown on the registration application. The amount is based on 82,751 house trailer applications processed by the agency.

Beginning next year, Ott said a new licensing law will take effect separating travel trailers from mobile homes. Revenue collected on travel trailers will be dedicated to state parks and recreation purposes, and that collected on mobile homes will continue to go to counties.

Even so, revenue to counties will be increased he said, because the new law, which will take effect in January, 1970, also will change the method of computing fees.

The Motor Vehicles Division estimates there are about 43,000 travel trailers and 37,000 mobile homes in the state.

In Morrow county there were 339 house trailer applications processed by the division during the past year, providing fees totaling $10,777.68.

Relatives visiting at the Art Watkins home over the past holiday week-end included their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Holland and three sons from The Dalles, another daughter, Mrs. Russell Longnecker from Mt. Vernon, Wash., their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Wilson and three children from Tillamook, and Mrs. Watkins' mother, Mrs. Dorothy Dunlap from Grass Valley. On Saturday the family enjoyed a picnic and swim at Lehman Springs.

Big Game Regulations Available at Dealers

Big game hunters are advised that the 1969 book of rules is now available at all license agencies.

Hunters are urged to pick up copies of the regulations as soon as possible, especially those hunters who intend to file applications for special tags and permits. All big game seasons are listed in the booklet as are permit and tag quotas for antelope, deer and other special seasons. The booklet also contains general hunting and firearms regulations which are of interest to all hunters.

As a reminder to hunters that they have only a few weeks left to file applications for permits and special season tags, the deadline and drawing dates for these hunts are as follows:

Antelope, bighorn sheep, and August deer permits:

Deadline — 5 p.m., July 25. Drawing date—10 a.m., August 1.

October and November deer permits:

Deadline — 5 p.m., August 12. Drawing date—10 a.m., August 22.

Elk permits:

Deadline — 5 p.m., September 9. Drawing date—10 a.m., September 19.

Hunters are reminded that to be eligible for the various drawings applications must be received by the Game Commission at its Portland headquarters by 5 p.m. on the deadline date. This means that upstate hunters should have applications in the mail several days in advance of this date to insure arrival in Portland prior to the cutoff.

Rice Appointed Reserve Deputy

Bob Rice of Ione has been appointed as a reserve Deputy of the Morrow county Sheriff's office, according to Sheriff John F. Mollahan.

Rice will be used to assist in policing dances and other special functions within the county, Mollahan said.

The new deputy served with the Reno, Nev., police force, prior to returning to the county in 1967 to assist his mother in the operation of the family ranch near Ione.

He was graduated from Ione High school in 1961, and attended Oregon State University and Columbia Basin College.

The new deputy is married and has one daughter.
