

Noted Artist To Judge Work of Fair Entries

By LENNA SMITH
Morrow County Fair Board

We are very fortunate to have as a special art judge this year at our Morrow County Fair, Ben Larson of Portland, past president of the Oregon Art Association.

Mr. Larson is well known in this area as he has been here several times holding illustrated sermons at various churches. He also has demonstrated at art classes through Nikander studio. He has his own studio in Portland where he has classes and teaches in several other communities in that area.

While attending Iowa State Teachers college with intentions of becoming an art teacher, Mr. Larson was encouraged by his instructors to go into a more extensive study of art. He then entered Chicago Academy of Fine Arts and after finishing there he came west where he made his home.

In the early 1930's he took a trip to Europe where he studied in Denmark, France, Spain, and England. Part of this time was spent traveling with an art class sponsored by Michael Jacobs. Through this class he learned much on color and atmosphere—a quality for which he is well known.

Mr. Larson has been elected president of the Oregon Art Association four different times and is well thought of in the art world.

We encourage everyone to enter their art work this year and the following is some information that will be helpful—

Because of space it's necessary to limit one article for each lot. These are lots listed in the fair premium book, but if one does not pertain to your art exhibit, other lots can be made at time of entry:

1. Watercolor or painting—portrait; 2. Watercolor or painting—scenery; 3. Oil painting—portrait; 4. Oil painting—scenery; 5. Pastel drawing—portrait; 6. Pastel drawing—scenery; 7. Deadline Near For Game Draw

Big game hunters are reminded that they have only a few more days to file applications for unit deer permits if they want to be included in the drawings.

Applications must be received by the Game Commission on or prior to the deadline date to be eligible for the drawings. This means that upstate hunters should file applications well in advance of the cutoff period to insure arrival at the Game Commission's Portland headquarters in time.

Applications are obtained at all license agencies with the purchase of the general season deer tag and must have the same serial number as the deer tag. License dealers have full instructions on filing and mailing procedures. Hunters will also find complete instructions in the big game regulations booklet on pages 30 and 31.
