

PARADE GRAND MARSHAL Frank Turner doffs his hat to the crowd during the parade Saturday. Turner turned down offers to ride in a car and stayed on horseback for the parade.

SHOWING OFF THE SADDLE he won as the 1969 Morrow county amateur calf roping champion is Sand Hollow rancher Jerry Dougherty (left). Queen Sheila presented the saddle for Kinua Corporation to Dougherty, who had a total time of 65.2 seconds on two calves to win the event.

1969 Morrow County Fair and Rodeo was a picturesque event

IT WAS GOOD CAKE, good enough to win first place in the Oregon Wheat Growers League cake baking contest at the fair for Mrs. Jerry (Pat) Dougherty (right). Runnerup was Mrs. Vern (Dora Sue) Viall. Both women are from Lexington.

A 113-POUND SOUTHDOWN CROSS lamb, shown by Sue Ellen Greenup, Heppner, was grand champion at the 1969 Morrow county fair. Federal Land Bank, Pendleton, paid 85 cents a pound for the lamb.

LEADERSHIP was the theme of the booth of the Morrow County Jaycees, and it led the way to the Sweepstakes award at the fair. It was also first place in Community Service division.

A FORMER AND PERHAPS A FUTURE Queen of the Morrow county Fair and Rodeo rode together in the parade. 1964 Queen Shannon (Mahoney) Smith, helped her niece on the horse, and four-year-old Tara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Mahoney, rode throughout the event.
