

CowBelles Urge Beef Certificates For Christmas Gifts

The Oregon Beef Council originated the Beef Gift Certificate idea six years ago. First year's sales were only $5,000; then jumped to $20,000 the second year and last year, with increased sales help from the U. S. National Bank and First National Bank, sales went over $60,000. Of this amount, $10,000 in certificates were redeemed by retail grocery stores representing 32 different states outside of Oregon.

Certificates are the size of a regular check, are equivalent to a cashier's check drawn by the Beef Council on the First National or U. S. National banks and are available in $5.00, $10.00 and $15.00 denominations. They can be redeemed for beef at any retail grocery store or meat market in the entire United States.

The Beef industry of Oregon would like you to consider Beef Gift Certificates for your holiday gift giving this year. They are available at any branch of either bank or through the county CowBelle organization. Mrs. Bob Mahoney and Mrs. Jerry Brosnan are in charge of sales in Morrow County, and certificates may be purchased directly from them.

The Heppner branch of First National Bank has already sold 15 certificates for 1969 Christmas gifts.

MR. AND MRS. MIKE SMITH married in Baker.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Smith Wed In Baker Ceremony

Michael Brendan Smith of Eugene, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Smith of Yakima, formerly of Heppner, was married Aug. 23 to Marjorie Lois Elliott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Elliott of Bridgeport. The ceremony, read by the Rev. Robert McNeil before the members of the immediate families was held at the Methodist Church in Baker.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of white miramist nylon which she had made herself. The floor-length gown had brocade lace trim with full length gathered sleeves. She carried a bouquet of white daisies and her tulle veil was held in place by a cluster of white daisies.

Her sister, Miss Barbara Elliott was her honor attendant and bridesmaids were Miss Theresa Graven of Eugene and Mrs. Rod Brown, sister of the bridegroom. They wore street-length dresses of coin-dot voile. The honor attendants wore green and the bridesmaids wore yellow.

John Mathews of Eugene was best man and ushers were Tim Smith, brother of the bridegroom and Tom Elliott, brother of the bride.

Reception Follows
The reception followed in the Fireside room of the Methodist Church served by the members of the WSCS. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Ray W. Comstock of Baker and the bride's aunt, Mrs. A. E. Franklin served the cake. Pouring were Mrs. David Pidcock, Mrs. Don Badgley, Miss Esther Shumway and Miss Joyce Badgley. Mrs. Lynn Shumway and Mrs. Ross Shumway arranged the gifts and Miss Pamela Shuey, Miss Patti Trimble were in charge of the guest book.

Bouquets, boutonnières and corsages for the wedding and reception were made by Mrs. Franklin. The going-away corsage worn by the bride was white cimbidium orchids.

The bride is a graduate of Burnt River High, 1965, attended EOC and graduated from OSU in 1969. The bridegroom graduated from Heppner High School, 1963, attended Portland State and U of O before serving in the Army 33 months with 14 in Vietnam. He is now attending the U of O. They are at home, 1874 Columbia St. in Eugene.

DOT'S JOTS

OOH I love that Courthouse. It is so elegant standing at the end of the street, with those commanding three clock faces. I just imagine that the college kids and the fellows off in the service must feel a real pang of homesickness for that landmark of home. It surely must be a thrill to see it upon returning. There are 38 steps up from the bottom of the Courthouse to the front door.

And that balustrade on the inside stairs! It has a kind of courtliness of another age. Its high polish makes it shine. I hope that some young architect never tries to modernize these features out of existence!

Another something old I like is that old store front next to Thomson Bros. Grocery. It needs to be preserved just like it is.

And another something old is the ceiling of the upstairs at the American Legion Building. At the price you have to pay carpenters you can't afford for them to take the time to saw lumber to those designs anymore. The narrow lumber has been cut to form triangles and other geometric designs. Just real distinctive. There should be a way to paint that ceiling so that skill of the past would show up more.

Charlie says he's glad I like old things . . . cause he's getting older every day!!

Sunday was a bad day. It was bad enough to go over after a load of stuff we don't know what to do with but coming back Charlie's Navy mattress slipped out from under the tarp and was lost. We were almost to the top of Franklin Grade when we discovered the loss. We back-tracked all the way to Pilot Rock with no luck. It has Charlie's name and serial number on the mattress as well as the mattress cover. If anyone from Heppner, Pilot Rock or Ukiah picked it up, Charlie is sure to get it back.

Our grandsons think it makes a grand tumbling mat!

Bridge Club Honors Mrs. Sumner

The Duplicate Bridge Club surprised one of their members, Mrs. Jack Sumner with Pink and Blue gifts at their Christmas party. Everyone brought baby gifts except Mrs. Sumner whose gift was given as a door prize to Mrs. Phil Mahoney. The gifts were placed under a revolving Christmas tree on the coffee table. The group decided to open gifts before playing cards. The first one was a baby gift, the second one was a baby gift so then Mrs. Sumner opened the rest.

Bridge winners were Mrs. Sumner first and Mrs. Pat Brindle and Mrs. Bill Collins tied for second.

Others playing were Mrs. Jim Driscoll, Mrs. Ralph Richards, Mrs. Marshall Lovgren and Mrs. Claude Graham.

Mr. and Mrs. Sumner and family have moved into the Stockard house for the winter months.

Christian Women Meet

On Dec. 10, a planned potluck luncheon was enjoyed by the afternoon CWF and the evening Vesper Circle. Vesper Circle was hostess for the dinner and the CWF provided the program. Peggy Johnson gave the Devotion centered around Christmas. Irene Nolan led the lesson and discussion. Santa jars were filled with candy and Christmas baskets were finished during the meeting. Members are urged to bring their cookies to fill the baskets next Sunday to Church. A babysitter was provided during the meeting.
