

One
Cow
Dairy

By EDNA RENFROW JUSTICE

performance to look forward to in the evening.
Twice a day at the same hour, Sundays, Christmas, Fourth of July, in sickness and in health, in sun and rain, and snow, and sleet, old Bossy takes precedence over everything.
Go ahead and buy a cow. I'll think of you when I sneak out onto the front porch in my bathrobe and slippers and bring in the milk with the morning paper. I'll think of you at day's end while I am relaxing over a tall, cold glass of buttermilk. I'll think of you on New Year's morning, if I should just happen to be awake. You will be. Ever hear an un milked, unfed, discontented cow bawl?
