Port Speaker Optimistic For Future

By FRANCES ROSE WILSON

IRRIGON—Boardman Soil and Water Conservation District held its annual business meeting Feb. 10 at the Irrigon Lion's Club building. A dinner was served to 70 people. Guest speaker Rupert Kennedy, manager of Port of Morrow predicted a population growth in the area due to agriculture development, industry and pleasant living conditions. In county planning Irrigon is recognized for its home sites, and development of more housing is recommended.

Maxwell Jones, chairman, and also manager of West Extension Irrigation District, gave a report of the year's program. Approximately 1,000 acres were brought under cultivation last year, with another 1,000 acres being developed this year in the area. The Uman pumping plant at Umatilla has helped to make this possible, according to Jones.

The need for zoning was emphasized. There are certain land use problems which can be avoided by proper zoning before an influx of population. Senate bill No. 10 requires that by Dec. 31, 1927, all cities and counties be zoned. Tentative plans for the area includes an Agricultural Park to be located West of Ordinance with feed mills, packing plants, grain elevators and other industry related to agriculture.

Concerning the proposed Industrial Park on the Columbia River in the Boardman area, and the nuclear plant site, Mr. Kennedy pointed out that there are only 2 bodies of water in the Northwest large enough to handle the cooling process of a nuclear plant. These are the Ocean and the Columbia River. The climate of Eastern Oregon is ideal, since a great deal of moisture is put into the atmosphere. The dry climate here would soon dissipate the moisture that would produce unwanted mist on the Coast.

Mr. Kennedy said he expected Shell will be irrigating by 1971. Their 12,000 acres are southwest of Ordinance in Morrow County.

A Port of Morrow brochure was made up a year ago and has been sent to interested parties throughout the United

Conference for Parents of Pre-school Deaf Children Set

The 22nd annual Conference for parents of preschool age deaf and hard of hearing children will be held at the Oregon State School for the Deaf in Salem from March 8 through March 11.

Parents of hearing impaired children are faced with a challenge greater than that encountered by most parents. The Conference is designed to help these parents prepare themselves for their unique role. They will experience tours, discussions and demonstrations while their children will be observed and examined by teams of specialists.

The Conference is sponsored by the Oregon Cooperative Council for the Deaf which represents sixteen public and private agencies concerned with the needs of hearing impaired children and their parents. Parents who wish to attend the Conference should contact Marvin B. Clatterbuck, Superintendent of the Oregon State School for the Deaf, 999 Locust Street, N. E. Salem, Oregon 97310.

Andersons Home From Hawaii

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Anderson in company with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Barratt now of Spokane but formerly of Heppner and Mr. and Mrs. John Leland, Spokane, returned Sunday evening from 10 days spent in Hawaii.

They flew both ways and the Pan Am pilot said Sunday evening that with their terrific tail wind, they broke the former record flight by one minute.

They had beautiful weather to allow them to spend lots of time on the beach. They had only one day of rain. They are agreed that six is a good number to go traveling because four can play cards while the other couple can nap or go sightseeing. They visited three islands, Oahu, Kauai and Maui. It was at Maui they visited the pineapple plantations. They say they "ate everything in sight" and did everything else visitors to the islands do.

Friday they plan to go to Corvallis for the basketball game and visit their three sons, Eric, Stephen and Charles.

States and to foreign countries, describing the opportunities, the climate, transportation facilities, and possible industrial sites of Morrow County.
