THIS PICTURE shows Mrs. Arthur Allen of the Boardman Extension Unit wearing her three-piece pants suit made in the Pants for Women workshop. She is holding a man's shirt that was made by Mrs. Ed Cutting of Heppner Unit.

She says in the four sessions she learned more than from any other workshop she has taken. Instructors were Mrs. Cleve Hinton and Mrs. Melvin Allyn.

She got the material from the Pendleton Woolen Mills, 60" wide at $1.50 a yard. She made the well fitting smart slacks and matching top and blouse for $9.00. She will wear them bowling, outdoor activities as well as on a trip to Alaska coming up soon.

She has lived in Boardman for 45 years. She became enthusiastic about Extension after her children were grown, felt she didn't have time when they were younger as she was "busy" boarding the teachers.

One son Gene, is office manager for Lamb Weston and the other one, Clayton, is at Selah. He is in charge of the construction of the new J. C. Penney complex in Yakima.

When asked how she felt about the 19 year old vote she said, "I'm not in favor of the 19 year old vote because they don't know the value of a dollar and I can't trust them with my money".

4-H LIVESTOCK

Cool Weather in April Holds Snow Pack in Mountains

Water supplies will be average for water users with direct stream diversions in north central Oregon. Water users with stored water will have excellent early summer supplies.

The mountain snowpack is 185 percent of average on the McKay Watershed and 214 percent of normal on the Walla Walla Watershed. This is due mainly to below normal temperatures during April and a resultant lack of snowmelt. Precipitation during April was 87 percent of average. Soil moisture is good on the upper watersheds.

Summer streamflow forecasts range from 117 percent of average for the Walla Walla North Fork near Milton, to 73 percent of average for the McKay near Pilot Rock. Reservoirs are nearly full. The flow of the Umatilla near Pendleton was 86 percent of average during April.

Snow Cover

Much below average temperatures kept the snow cover from melting the usual amounts during April. Many snow courses reported water contents nearly the same as last month. The May 1 snow cover ranged from 200 to 300 percent of average in eastern Oregon down to 50 to 90 percent of average in southcentral counties and in the Cascades.

Snow Readings—April

	Snow Depth (In.)	Water Cont. (In.)	Water Cont. Ave.
Arbuckle Mountain	30	11.8	2.8
Battle Mountain Summit	T	T	0.3
Blue Mountain Camp	27	11.4	3.3
Emigrant Springs	7	2.5	1.1
Lucky Strike	44	14.6	8.5

Precipitation

Only the Willamette Valley received above average precipitation during the month. Southwestern Oregon rainfall was near normal but the rest of the state ranged on down to amounts only 30 to 50 percent of average.

Reservoir Storage

Most reservoirs are full now with the exception of Wallowa Lake and Crescent Lake in eastern Oregon, which are about one-half full. On May 1 twenty-six reservoirs were storing 2,937,700 acre feet of water. This is 118 percent of what is usually stored on this date.

Streamflow

Streamflow was about one-half of normal during April due to lack of snowmelt from cold temperatures.

Streamflow Forecasts

Basin, Stream and/or Forecast Point	Thousand Acre Feet	Percent of Average	Forecast Period	Ave.
