

Over The Tee Cup

By Marie McQuarrie

A Play Day is planned for Sunday, the 24th at 3:00 for all members of Willow Creek Country Club. For those who have never attended these, we want you to know they are a lot of fun, laughs and not too-serious golf. Three couples, the Bob Kellys, the Ed Schaffitz and the Frank Andersons are in charge of the Sunday Play Day. Often, a two-ball foursome is played, with partners picked out of a hat. The manner of play, however, is up to those hosting the day. Prizes are also at the discretion of those in charge. Let's make our first Play Day a big one. Come one — come all.

A goodly turnout again for Tuesday's Ladies' Day. Fifteen women were on the course to enjoy the morning sunshine and cool breeze. Weather couldn't have been more perfect. Just what we have waited for, for so long. Barbara Clough and Corliss Boner were hostesses.

Three girl golfers who are comparatively new to the golfing game, were there today. They all said they had a good time. It has been said, some of the women who would like to play golf are fearful of coming down on Tuesdays as they think the regular players shoot like "pros". Far from it, gals, we are all there purely for the fun of the game. Of course, we try to do our best, but sometimes that is pretty poor. We welcome any ladies who would like to play golf, even if they don't know one end of the club from the other or don't know how the game is played. Come on down and join the fun and soon you will be a "regular."

One prize for today was to be given for the player with the most "pars". Three tied for this: Beverly Gunderson, Karen Thompson and Mary Lou Kelly. Instead of having a play-off, Beverly Gunderson was awarded the prize as she had a "birdie" on one hole. Corliss Boner won the other prize for having the most putts. See, it plays to come play golf, even if you are new at the game, as she was one of the newer golfers. She reported she had a good time.

The weather being warmer, it was decided to start Ladies' Day at 9:00 a.m. from now on. It is not so warm toward the end of your game, and this starting time leaves a little more leeway for getting home to make lunch for your working husband.

Come on, gals, whether or no you have played golf, join us on Tuesday morning and find out what fun we all have.

Another Elks Award To Van Marter

LaVerne Van Marter, Jr. will receive a plaque as the Outstanding Committeeman of the Year of the Oregon State Elks Association. Announcement of the award was made at the summer session of the State Elks Convention held in Salem, May 14 through 17.

Other members of Heppner Lodge No. 358 attending the convention were Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Lovgren, Mr. and Mrs. Cal Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Siewert, Mr. and Mrs. John Molahan, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Orwick and Mrs. Van Marter.

Honorary Taps Patti Healy

Several dozen University of Oregon students were recognized during the Mother's and Dad's Weekend May 8-10, with awards for achievement, scholarships, and tapping by campus honoraries.

The sophomore women's honorary, Kwama, tapped Patti Healy, Heppner.

Mother's Day guests at the home of Pastor and Mrs. R. Mensch were all their children, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Mensch, Scott and Kevin from Seattle and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Weitz. Gary and Karen from Milton-Freewater.

The picture above shows the Physics Class becoming familiar with the operation of a Diffusion Cloud Chamber. The radioisotope sources are Strontium 90 and Radium 226.

In the cloud chamber they observed vapor trails of Cosmic rays. Radium 226 source was placed in the side so that the vapor trails of alpha particles could be seen. Strontium 90 source was used to produce vapor trails of beta particles.

The cloud chamber as the bottom filled to a depth of 1/4" with black dye alcohol to darken the inside. The cloud chamber is then placed on a slab of dry ice to form a vapor inside. A light source is placed at a clear glass opening to shine into the chamber. The radioisotope sources are placed in an opening. After ten minutes vapor trails begin to appear as the particles are given off. Alpha particles can be readily distinguished from the trails of beta particles because of their much heavier ionization.

The vapor field can be cleared by an attached battery.

SPECIAL GUEST COMING FOR R. A. M. MEETING HERE

Ora D. Baker of Oceanside, Calif. will be an honored guest of Heppner chapter of Royal Arch Masons on May 27. Mr. Baker, affectionately known as O. D., will receive the first 50 year pin ever presented by the local chapter.

A special program has been arranged for the evening. Many of O.D.'s friends plan to be present and renew old ties. Mr. Baker formerly lived here. He was treasurer and office manager of the Kinzua Mill at Kinzua.

The Merry Mixers 4-H Club met at the leader's home, Mrs. Lee Pettyjohn, May 12. They judged muffins made by Carol McElligott and Donna Palmer and cakes made by Joan and Kathleen McElligott. We judged a table setting and Deborah Palmer demonstrated making a Cauliflower Bunny. We presented Mrs. Pettyjohn an anniversary gift.

IRRIGON NEWS

A new arrival at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Miller, Kent, Wash. is Mark Christopher Miller, born May 5, weighing 7 lb., 7 oz., at Auburn General Hospital. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Willard Miller.

Mrs. Ellen Reeder has returned from Whittier, Calif., where she was visiting her son.

At State TB Meet

Morrow County was represented at the annual meeting of the Ore. TB & Respiratory Disease Assn. May 14 and 15 at the Sheraton Hotel, Portland, by Mrs. Lowell Chally, County Health Dept., and Mr. Chally, Welfare Administrator.

Topics were 5-Day Plan for Cessation of Smoking Clinics, TB Today — treatment and care and explained new respiratory disease treatment & care center opening May 26 in Medical Arts Building, Portland, open to all who desire a breathing test.

Guests at 'The Depot' Karen and Ann In Honorary

Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Kennedy entertained the Port of Morrow Commissioners and their wives and newspaper representatives at "The Depot" following the hearing on the budget meeting Thursday evening.

The old depot has been remodeled into a charming home which starts at the gate. Here stands a cupola from a carriage barn in long ago Portland topped with a wind vane. Throughout their home they have incorporated treasures old and from near and far.

The old fashioned fireplace with a brass filigree door in the living room, like the cupola is from Portland. It sets in a used brick wall. On the opposite side of the wall and up on the former freight loading platform is a huge brick fireplace with a raised hearth the width of the wall and the mantel is a huge timber from under the depot. There is a brick oven at one side of the fireplace, like the one in the kitchen of the Governor's mansion in restored Williamsburg.

The telegraphers room is now the utility room. The ticket office is Rupe's office-at-home and houses a huge roll-top desk. Three bedrooms and the "gold room" are on down the hall. The gold room is a spacious bath room with old shutters at the window, swag petal lights and wall-to-wall carpeting in gold. The two bedrooms are furnished with metal bedsteads and old fashioned commodes. They have used vinyl covered panel boards on the wall.

In the kitchen off from the family room is an old fashioned meat cutters table that belonged to a brother-in-law. Off from the kitchen is a storage room and pantry beyond that a step up over the stairway to the daylight basement. The bath very tiny but convenient off from the kitchen has a marble wash basin from a Portland home of long ago.

The house represents hours and hours of love and care and sanding and putting with many more to come.

It is no more charming than the two who live in it. Their cordial hospitality coupled with delicious food made an enjoyable evening for Mr. and Mrs. Garland Swanson and Oscar Peterson of Ione, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Lindsay of Lexington, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Krebs of Cecil, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey West, Jr. and Shirley Zielinski of Boardman, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Winter and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Heard of Heppner and Bob Woehler of Hermiston.

The Sewing Six held an all day meeting March 21. The members cut out dresses at the Cafeteria in Ione. Then went to the home of their leader, Mrs. Ruth McCabe and worked on them. At the regular meetings, members have had sessions in judging and practice sewing. Plans are underway to do some sewing projects for the Heppner Pioneer Memorial Hospital and to entertain another 4-H club group.
