

Floating Docks are at Irrigon Boat Basin

By FRANCES ROSE WILSON

IRRIGON—Floating docks are being installed this week, in the Irrigon boat basin. They are composed of styrofoam blocks, encased in concrete.

The project is being financed through the Irrigon Park and Recreation District, with some funds coming from a State recreation program. It is part of the planned improvement program for the boat basin, to be done this year. Bellingham Builders Supply of Bellingham, Wash., are doing the job. Pete Havecost, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Havecost of Irrigon, is in charge of the installation.

The Corps of Engineers will have contracts underway during the year for enlarging the basin and building a breakwater, according to Orville Buchanan, chairman of the Park District Board.

Class Reunion Planned

A class reunion is being planned for Saturday, May 23, for the graduating classes of '61 to '65, at Riverside High School, Boardman, for students from Irrigon and Boardman.

Mrs. Warren McCoy is chairman of the Cancer Drive, and people of the community will be contacted for contributions in the next 2 weeks.

Vacation in Hawaii

Mr. and Mrs. Warren McCoy have returned from a 2-week vacation in Hawaii. They flew from Portland to Hilo, where they rented a car, driving 300 miles to tour the island. They visited the craters, coffee fields and mills, and the wet and dry caves. They went to a cowboy Luau at the Kona Hilton Hotel.

They flew to the island of Kauai where they took a river boat tour. Their guide told much of the history of the island. They have 600 inches of rain fall. Here they visited the beautiful Fern Grotto where many marriages are performed. At the Cocanut Palms they attended a night celebration with lighted torches and blowing of Conch shells.

They flew to Honolulu where they spent 6 days, visiting Waikiki Beach, watched karate experts and visited the Polynesian Center.

Mrs. McCoy said one of the highlights of their trip was the many interesting people they met. They ate cocunut from the shell with a couple they had never met before and were given tickets to a production show of the "I dream of Jeannie" television series, by a stranger.

In Honolulu they visited the Sea Life Park, where an Oceanography study is being conducted. Here dolphins were being trained to help locate submarines.

On their return trip they visited the Ice Follies in Portland. The family of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Havecost visited this week, to honor Mrs. Havecost on her 81st birthday, May 13. Her oldest son, Bill Logan, a patient in the veterans hospital, Walla Walla, was unable to be here. Those here were Mr. and Mrs. Pete Havecost, Bellingham, Wash., Mr. and Mrs. Ray Barnett, Ione and Jack Havecost of Visalia, Calif.

All School Track Meet

A. C. Houghton Elementary School picnic and track meet, May 13, was an all school track meet with all students participating from Kindergarten thru 5th grade. Sixth grade students served as officials.

On May 6 the 5th grade went on a Conservation tour of the area, accompanied by Maxwell Jones and Clarence Underwood.

They visited the Dunn and McClannahan Potato farm, the Ulman Pumping Station at the mouth of the Umatilla River. They were taken on a desert plant identification tour. They observed grape culture at the Allen McCoy farm, melon farming at Fred Fredricksons farm, sprinkler irrigation of grass and alfalfa hay at the Vern Dillon place and visited the Don Kenney farm. Mrs. Rose Hooser is 5th grade teacher.

The third and fourth grades of A. C. Houghton school entertained at Hiersche's Nursing Home and at the Golden Age Club, Tuesday in Pendleton. On Wednesday the fourth grade visited the grain elevator to watch a barge being loaded with wheat.
