Have A Part . . .

Heppner is again the site of the annual Memorial Day Pioneer Picnic. Members of Pioneer families as well as newcomers are urged to go down and visit a while.

Many of these older folks make a real effort and are at some expense to get back to their home towns. While they may not know the present generation members, these people enjoy recalling tales of "the grandfather days" with the new generation.

Heppner people are invited to have a part in hosting the annual picnic and provide some of the friendly hospitality that warms the cockles of everyone's heart, be he young or old.

Worryworts

Most of us do a lot of useless worrying. Statisticians at the University of Wisconsin estimate that, on the average, some 40% of our worrying is about things that never happen . . . 30% involves things over and past that can't be changed by worrying . . . 22% are petty and needless worries . . . leaving only 8% that can be considered legitimate worries!

Bad Medicine

One prominent psychiatrist, Dr. Bruno Bettelheim, believes the mental health of young people is being damaged by their disrespect for authority figures, their contemptuous attitudes toward police, their attacks on national leaders and the civil disobedience movement.

Dr. Bettelheim believes that young people need adults who can serve as models who are willing to assert their authority and who themselves respect authority and the law. Adults who do not reflect these values may be leading youth into unhappiness and maladjustment.

Memorial Day in May

On this May 30th, all of us join in a salute to our honored war dead. The poppy has become the traditional flower for American war dead. Wearing a poppy now honors the dead and, at the same time means employment for the disabled veterans who fashion the paper flowers.

On this Memorial Day we honor Morrow County's men of World War I and II and the other wars who were killed in action: Earl K. Akin, Tench B. Aldrich (Ione), Eldon L. Allen and Raymond Allen of Irrigon, Roger J. Arendt, Arthur Chapel of Hardman, David Clark (Heppner), Golder A. Collins (Monument), Nalbro Cox (Heppner), Herbert R. Davidson (Ione), Clyde Edwards (Lexington), Alfred Emert (Ione), Cecil Jefferson Espy, Jr., Kay Ferguson (Heppner), Ernest Forbes (Heppner), Elbert M. Gibson, Jr., (Heppner), Clarence T. Harris (Ione), Norton King (Heppner), Bobbie Morgan (Ione), Donald R. Myles (Boardman), Elmer Presley (Heppner), Paul V. Rietmann (Ione), Jerry Settles (Heppner), Oswald Sika, James A. Stevens (Hardman), F. E. Stillwell, George S. Wallace, Kenneth E. Warner and Stanley A. Way (Lexington), Dow Worden of Boardman.

THE CONSUMER'S LAMENT

How dear to my heart was Heppner, the wet town;
When whiskey was plenty, I never was dry;
The Gin Fizz and Cocktail, I always did down them,
And drank lots of Hop Gold and Schlitz on the sly.
Hostetter's and Lash's I always was taking,
And Old Billy Taylor I'd never pass by;
And dear Cyrus Noble my thirst I did slake in
Those wet days in Heppner, for them now I sigh.
Fech Brandy and Ginger, Oh! how I adore them,
A slug of Old Crow would hit the right spot;
The good Buttered Rums, how often I stored them
With hot Tom and Jerrys I have never forgot.
Farewell to the High Ball, farewell Rock and Rye,
No more the Gin Rickey or Absinthe is nigh,
There is never a sign of the good old home brew;
Oh! Tell me what all the dry ranchers will do,
No more in the morning the rounds we'll be making,
No good mornings-morning to gladden our eye;
Our nerves gone to pieces, our teeth just a shaking;
Oh, it's hell when you can't get a shot of Cream Rye.

The following scenes show the occupations of saloon proprietors six months after date, and the good and bad ending of the various heretofore Alcohol Artists.

THE ROCK SALOON

Frank Monahan's gone sheep raising to do;
He has started a band with three bucks and a ewe.
Frank Roberts is now with the Allies in France
As war correspondent on Conder's Free Lance.

THE FROG POND

Vic Groshens departed, but since has been seen
Commanding a German submarine.
Bill Lillard, his reason did never regain;
He was sent to the Home for the Hopeless Insane.

FANT'S SALOON

H. Fant, so high toned, at him people now stare;
They did not expect he would be a millionaire.
Cleve Adkins discarded his evil ways
And is writing moving picture plays.
Hank Howell, he left for the city's good.
And discovered hot springs on the top of Mt. Hood.

THE BRICK

Dave McAtee now from the platform is giving
A lecture on "War and the High Cost of Living."
George Aiken invented a process that cleans
The explosive energy out of beans.

THE PALACE BAR

Cold Storage eggs and armor plate ham,
I am Joe Wilkins, the Great I am
Jim Wilson went broke and his money spent;
He does chores for his board at Monument.
Walt Duncan broke down from financial strains;
He stood out in the wind and it blew out his brains.

FINIS

Two-Lung-Mock with the Yellow Face
Beat them all in the get-away race.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

AMUND KVAM
IFYE Student

Sarpsborg 9/5-1970

Dear friend(s)!!!
Here is a surprise to you, may be. Yes, that's right. This letter is mailed in Washington, D. C., and I should like to be the one who mailed the letter, but it's impossible. One of the Norwegian IFYEs to the States this year brought the letter with him. — Four Norwegians, two girls and two boys are leaving Oslo Tuesday, 12th of May. I will meet the group before they are leaving. I don't know for sure yet if anybody of them are so happy, coming to one of my host states, Oregon or Indiana this year. I hope so!!

Maybe some of you are thinking I have broken my arms, but that's not so. My arms are still good. The time is running fast in Norway too, as fast as in the states. It has been impossible to write so much as I want and should like to do. To reach so many of you at the same time, I make this common letter. I hope to hear from you, and then I want to answer your letter individually. My address at the bottom of the paper. I hope you will use it.

Yes, my address has changed a little. It is ok to use my home address you might have, but then my parents have to send it forward to me. Now I'm living 480 miles from home. It is in the Southeast of Norway, almost at the bottom of the map of Norway. This place is 60 miles Southeast of Oslo, and only 20 miles from the border to Sweden. Four weeks ago I started as a county agent in 4-H. I'm working with 600 members in 27 clubs. I like the work very well. Two of the three IFYE's last year are county agents. The girl is working in another county, but the other boy is in the army.

I'm told if one of my host families in the States get a good crop this year, they will come to Norway and visit me this summer. I really hope they are coming. Don't forget to take a trip to Norway, when you are going to Europe. All of you are welcome home. I want to see all my host-families and friends here. Who will be the first???

I didn't get homesick for Norway at all during my stay in the States, but now I'm homesick for the states. It is one week less than one year since I left home and started my IFYE-program. I would like to come back this summer, but . . . I'm still looking forward to 1972 and the world IFYE Alumni Conference in Colorado. I hope !!! See you then?? Meanwhile, here in my office I have the American and 4-H flag which remind me about the best and most interesting summer in my life, 1969. I'm very happy being able to take part

What If We Should

If we should accomplish birth control to avoid a population explosion, what will become of the economic forecasters who base industrial growth on population explosion. A level population will reduce the demand for goods and services in every area. There would be no need for industrial expansion. Some industries would stagnate. Worse than that, the U. S. would be vulnerable to the extreme pressure of heavy populations in Asia, Africa, and South America. They would find ways to disrupt our sphere of influences, and stifle our growth.

in the IFYE-program. It is more than worth half a year.

Last week I changed my face a little. I shaved off my whole beard I started growing at the IFYE-Conference in Iowa. I am still the same person.

Now I'm looking forward to hear from you how things are going? I wish you all a good summer. My family is greeting.
Love,

Dear Mr. Heard:

A letter to the editor seems an appropriate method to use to recognize the outstanding contribution, citizenship wise, a number of high school students have made to Morrow County.

Eight students from the three high schools have been active members of the Morrow County Juvenile Advisory committee this year. As such they have had equal responsibility and equal opportunity to be heard when speaking to issues at hand and making plans for future policy and action of the committee. The eight student members are Pat Kilkenny, Molly Becket (HHS), Kristin Nelson, Joy Beggs (IHS), Bruce Buchanan, Leon Wilson (RHS), Bill Greenup and Phil Ayres (members chosen at large).

Other students who have attended one or more meetings are Craig Cutting, Jim Healy, Gwen Drake, Darlene Warren, Mark Lovgren, and Denis Robbins. The students themselves have been candid when asked for their reactions to their membership. A few quotes will illustrate:

"I think we made the grown-ups aware that we aren't just little teenie-bobbers — that we know what's going on."

"I felt some of the adults wouldn't really respect my opinion because they felt they know more, and believed me not really responsible."

"I didn't feel that some of them were really listening to us."

"I feel the student on this should be one not involved with numerous other activities so he can attend every time."

"I would like to have more emphasis on THE LAW part of it."

"I think some of the student members should be ones who have been in Juvenile Court and know what it's like."

The unanimous opinion of adult members and resource people is that the students made an exceedingly important contribution to the work of the advisory committee this year. Consideration should be given to increasing the number and arranging for observers.

An advisory committee for county juvenile departments is mandatory for counties of over 10,000 population, according to state law. For counties of less population it is permissive. When I became the counselor for the Morrow County Juvenile Department in October, 1968, Judge Paul Jones made the organization of such a committee a very strong directive. Mrs. Bernard Doherty, Mrs. Ron Gray, Rev. Dirk Rinehart, Mrs. Larry Cook, Mrs. Leland McKinney, and Mrs. Conley Lanham comprised the committee during my first year. They also deserve recognition for their efforts on behalf of the juvenile department.

The present membership is twenty four including students. The major emphasis for the committee since its organization has been to become acquainted with the juvenile court system and its relationship to the community. The committee plans to implement some programs geared toward delinquency prevention in the future.

Judge Paul Jones has the power to appoint members to the juvenile advisory committee. He will be receptive to nominations submitted to him by individuals or organizations. It is a committee worthy of the time and energy required.

Sincerely,
Grace E. Drake

Dear Sirs:
A reunion was recently held at our home and we thought that perhaps it would be of interest to the many friends and readers of the Gazette-Times.

If you think this may be so too, the details of the party are as follows.
A combination family reunion and birthday party was held May 3 in Portland at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wasson. Guests of honor for the birthday party were Mrs. Lulu Wright who was celebrating her 92nd birthday and her sister, Mrs. Myrtle Barkuloo, who was celebrating her 89th birthday.

Both Mrs. Wright and Mrs. Barkuloo were born in Scio, Oregon and moved to Morrow County with their parents. Mr. and Mrs. William Riley Munkers in

NEW GIRLS' League officers for Heppner High for the coming year were installed at the Mother's Tea Monday afternoon. From left, Darlene Warren, incoming president, with Jill Rugg, vice-president; June Ledbetter, secretary; and Terry Pettyjohn, treasurer.

1884. They lived in Morrow County most of their lives. Mrs. Wright moving to The Dalles with her family and Mrs. Barkuloo moving to Portland.

Mrs. Wright now resides in Portland with her daughter, Mrs. Delle Matlock and Mrs. Barkuloo now resides with her daughter, Mrs. Faye Andre in Yachats.

Those attending the Birthday-Reunion were:

Floyd Gentry of Georgetown, Calif; Mrs. Edna Munkers, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Munkers, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Naffziger, all of Heppner; Mr. and Mrs. Archie Munkers, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Munkers of Lexington.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Ignowski and son, Robert of The Dalles; Mr. and Mrs. Michael F. Ignowski of Forest Grove; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ward of Woodburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Neal Van Blaricom and daughter Dawn; Mr. and Mrs. Allen Gentry and Susan and Bobby; Mr. and Mrs. Betty Wilson; Mrs. Delle Matlock; Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Cole and daughter, Lois; and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wasson and children, Candy and Ted, all of Portland.

Thank you,
Mrs. D. I. Matlock

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Heard:

I was given a Heppner Gazette-Times.

In this paper there was a picture from 1913 of the 7th & 8th graders. The picture of Willetta Barratt was identified wrong. It should have been Helen Barratt. Willetta was in the 3rd grade at that time.

I was born and raised in Heppner. Graduated with the class of 1919. I was married in 1924 to Ervin Reiman of St. Maries, Idaho, after graduated from O.A.C. in Corvallis in 1923.

My parents moved to Portland not long after I left Corvallis, so I haven't visited Heppner much since then.

My father and mother, William and Elza Barratt came to Heppner in the late 1800's.

My sister Willetta is now Mrs. Fred Hodecker and lives in Redmond. My youngest sister, Margaret is now Mrs. John Heltzel and lives in Salem.

I hope to get back to Heppner again someday. Will try to stop by and see you if I do.

Sincerely,
Helen Barratt Reiman
