Census Cute Ones

Mrs. Bill Snow had innumerable incidents out of the ordinary happen to her while she was taking census last month.

One family told her of their white cat who adopted a litter of jack rabbits. When she washed their ears she must have thought it was forever. She allowed them to nurse until they got teeth then she was through.

At another ranch she was told of a horrible noise coming from the chicken house. The rancher grabbed his gun and his wife grabbed the camera. They have a picture of a skunk sucking eggs... followed by a dead skunk.

At another ranch she thought she'd had it. It was one of the few tiring days. A goat knocked her down and added insult to injury by eating a page from her book.

Call backs were the worst. One day she drove 262 miles into the Alpine District. This was the day with the most call backs.
