

Lynda Cooper Shows Pics at Soroptimists

This summer was one great big wonderful dream that became a reality for Lynda Cooper. She told of her European trip and showed slides to the Heppner Soroptimist Club on Sept. 17 just before she went off to college.

She was chosen for the "Experiment in Living" program and left in June for a two weeks orientation in Vermont. To surmount the language barrier, she with others in the program had a crash course in German. Their instructors were German. The students were studied for their attitudes toward their own country, as well as towards the country they were going to be living in.

She lived with a German family. The head of the house was a mason and was very proud of the home he had made for his family. It, like every other German home, was surrounded with gardens and trees. The family did everything together which saw the whole family doing dishes together.

They had no ironing board but ironed on a table. She saw her first zoo. One of the girls in her family accompanied her on a tour around Germany, up the Rhine, into the Alps, saw many Lakes, Islands, Munich and Berlin.

On an island in Lake Constance, the largest Lake in Europe, are growing tropical plants, lemons, oranges and date palms. This is something of a phenomenon.

She made the trip by plane but went across country by train.
