

DOT'S JOTS

I don't know of any place that has as many funny odd things happen as a weekly newspaper. It was kinda interesting Monday when a hunter dropped in for a newspaper to take back to camp to read. Since we were all out of the current issue we gave him 3 back issues. He said he was from the valley. "Where?" "Silverton, just east of Salem." Then I asked him if he got his gun at Chuck Leonard's Sporting Good Store. "... no but his son had. I told him that Chuck was married to my niece. It got better the longer we talked because it finally turned out that his land joined my brother Elmers land in the Pratum area. Because Velma reads the G-T from cover to cover I'll add that it was Clifford H. Kuenzi who was in.

Olive Hughes writes that if any of her friends in Heppner who would like may contribute to the Scholarship Fund at the Christian Church in memory of her son-in-law, Keith Marshall. Top front page of the Hehlich carried a poem written in tribute to Jody Rugg. Only the mountains and the rivers live forever. Even the sun dies at the end of each day, but the memory of its light keeps men warm all through the darkness.

Parade Theme
For awhile I thought my suggestion for next year's parade theme was going to be the only one in the box! Then came last week and several more came in. The deadline was extended until Oct. 24. So if you have a thought, write it on a slip of paper and send it to the Gazette-Times. The slips will be turned over to Randall Peterson, parade chairman this weekend.

Transformation
What a transformation at the Jim Rogers place at the bottom of Chase Hill and Cannon. We admired the old house before we bought but it looked like too much house for us. Mr. and Mrs. Rogers have worked continually and have made many changes mostly inside. They sneaked in a paint job just before the weather turned cold and wet. It looks real pretty. White paint, green trim that matches the green roof.

They have made a 100% improvement on that corner.

Guests enjoyed the afternoon with everyone seeing "double". The hostesses served the favorite for October, pumpkin pie with whipcream.

Three Represent Lone At District Meeting

Three members of the Lone Garden Club attended the Fall meeting of the Blue Mountain District recently. Mrs. Van Hubbard, Mrs. Irene Padberg and Mrs. F. T. Martin, president of the local club were the attending members at the no-host luncheon at the Tapadera Restaurant. All clubs were requested to bring floral arrangements for the tables and Mrs. Martin made the arrangement for the Lone Club. She also presented the oldest and youngest members with bouquets of Chrysanthemums she had made which was her own idea.

At the meeting, Mrs. Hubbard and Mrs. Willard French were appointed to the District Audit Committee. Information was given to aid the clubs, book suggestions were made, ideas were exchanged and an explanation of awards available for the years work, if reported, were given. Displays, books, and year books were exhibited and State Awards were presented.

Orders will be placed to the State Chairman for floral notes and place mats by the club members for a money-making project. These orders must be in by Nov. 1.

Announcements were made regarding the various activities scheduled, one of which will be the tour of the Umatilla Bird Refuge this fall.

The nominating committee was elected for the Regional meeting at Sun River Resort at Bend this spring. The Blue Mountain District clubs will make the favors for the event.

OSU Draws Couple After Hawaii

A nosegay of tiny yellow rosebuds and baby's breath with white satin streamers was carried by Carol Jo Rawlins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Rawlins, lone, for her Sept. 5 wedding to Bill Densmore Brewster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bach, Sherwood. Father Raymond Beard united the couple at a nuptial mass in St. Patrick's Catholic Church.

MR. and MRS. BILL BREWSTER

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Victorian style gown with a long flowing train attached by a satin band to the empire waist. The dress, made of polyester organza over peau de soie, and lace, featured full lace, see-through sleeves with wide scalloped cuffs closed with 10 pearl buttons. A scalloped lace band trimmed the skirt edge. Lace motifs were on the skirt, train, and the sheer scoop neckline which was attached to a lace mandarin collar. Her fingertip veil fell from a flower headpiece of sequins and pearls. The bride designed and constructed her dress.

Verina French, maid of honor, wore an empire waist, floor length dress with a brown Serrano skirt gently gathered into a white dotted swiss bodice with short puffed sleeves and a ruffle at the neck. The bridesmaids were Diane Brewster, sister of the bridegroom, Becky Coleman, and Janet Paul, both from McMinnville. They wore dresses similar to the maid of honor only featuring long full sleeves, with wide ruffled cuffs closed with 5 brown buttons. All carried wicker baskets brimming with orange and yellow calendulas.

Best man was George Schroeder. Ushers were Jim Peters and Rex Hutchins, both of Sherwood, and Ed Schulmerich, Portland. Treve Gray, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer. Charlie Rawlins, brother of the bride, and David Worden were altar boys.

"The Lord's Prayer", and "The Wedding Prayer" were sung by the best man accompanied by the organist, Mrs. Paul Tews, lone.

The bride's mother chose to wear a gold knit crepe A-line dress with long sleeves. A gold feather hat and orange rosebud corsage accented the garment. The bridegroom's mother wore a burnt orange crepe dress trimmed with golden brown lace with matching hat and purse. She wore a yellow rosebud corsage.

Large bouquets of yellow glads and dahlias were on the altar. The pews were decorated with long white bows and orange dahlias with ivy.

Reception
Baskets of orange and yellow dahlias decorated the reception hall. The 3 tiered cake was encircled with orange dahlias and topped with a tiny bouquet of pom-pom dahlias. On either side of the cake were candleabras with orange dahlias arranged at the base.

Mrs. Jeanne Dobbs, aunt of the bride, poured coffee and Mrs. Robert Bach, Portland, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, poured punch. Mrs. Ronald Gray, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Don McElligott, godmother of the bride, served cake. Attending the gift table was Mrs. Tom Huson, aunt of the bride, Mrs. Raymond French was at the guest book. Wearing matching dresses made by the bride, Tawnie Gray and Claudia Huston, cousins of the bride, passed out wheat bags and parchment scrolls.

Going Away
A white knit A-line dress with a red, white and blue embroidered band up the front was worn by the bride with red patent shoes and purse. She wore a white carnation corsage with red and blue ribbon.

Following a week's honeymoon in Hawaii, the couple is at home in Corvallis where the bridegroom is working on his Masters degree on Weed Science, and the bride is a Senior in Home Economics Education.

Mrs. Graves Shows India Slides to DKG

"A Changing India" was the topic of a talk given by Mrs. John Graves of Heppner, at the Oct. 17 meeting of the Iota Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, women's education honorary, at Dodge City, in Boardman. Mrs. Graves illustrated her talk with interesting slides of the old India that continues to exist and of the new India that is struggling to solve its many problems.

During the business meeting it was reported that the Delta Kappa Gamma Society, at the International convention in Portland in August, had voted to donate $23,000 to an All-Indian college for Navajos in Arizona. A group of third and fourth graders from the A. C. Houghton elementary school in Irrigon entertained with several western songs.

Hostesses for the meeting were Gladys Ely, Jane Rawlins, Velva Becholdt and Rachel Dick.
