We decided to sell note paper this year for a money making project. We may take a field trip later on in the year.

We planned a window display for 4-H Week of Oct. 4-10. This was put up Monday evening of the 5th. Some girls will bring fair projects and their ribbons. A demonstration for display and sewing equipment. We will make clovers with each girls picture and our club name to put onto the window. Also a large clover out of chicken wire and staffed with crepe paper will be the background.

On Oct. 8 Stitchers-A-Go-Go met. Our meeting of Oct. 1 was cancelled because of a Grade School Football game. Third year girls worked on their record books and first year girls learned to thread and operate the sewing machine. Two new members joined us. They are Laura Malcolm and Shelly Thompson. We have 9 members now.

Churches Have Time Change

"The time has come," the walrus said, "to speak of many things; of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax, and cabbages and kings."

And so has the time come to remind you of the time change in the worship services of two churches in our area.

Each four months the Church of Christ, Lexington, and the First Christian Church, Heppner, who maintain a joint ministry served by one pastor, Don W. Johnson, rotate the times of their morning worship services so that neither congregation will have either the early or later service throughout the year.

Beginning Nov. 1 and extending through the month of February, 1971, the Heppner church will have their morning worship service at 9:00 a.m.; the Lexington service will be 11:00 a.m. The Bible School time for both churches continues to be at 10:00 a.m.; and the combined evening worship service in the Lexington church house at 7:30 p.m.

Ione Lions Club Meets

The Ione Lions Club met Monday for a steak dinner meeting at The Cafe in Ione.

Herman Winter, Morrow County's district attorney, discussed the 11 measures on the ballot for the general election. (His talk appears on page 2 this issue.)

Darrell Dooney and Don Evans appeared on behalf of the Western States Junior Rodeo which is proposed to show at Heppner for probably three days on the second weekend in June.

They asked the Lions Club to help with ticket sales and have a concession stand.

The club voted to discuss this matter and make a decision by early January.

Mr. Evans pointed out the possible size of the crowd when he said the rodeo might have 300 or 400 or perhaps as many as 800 contestants from 9 to 18 years of age.
