

DOTS JOTS

This one is a cutie . . . It seems that while Ruby Fulleton was on her way back to Bozeman, Mont. to school, she saw the sign, "Barrel Racing Today". She stopped her car, unloaded her horse, entered the race, won first place, reloaded her horse and was on her way again in an hour!

On several occasions I saw this recipe for "Quiche Lorraine". My high school French is too long gone to know how to pronounce it. Then for the day after Christmas breakfast I tried it. My grandsons and son-in-law were quite polite but not our daughter! Well, really it wasn't very good! Then later I was reading a story of parties given in Washington, D. C., and someone thought it was pretty bad when "Quiche Lorraine" had been served "without a napkin". Mostly I think it pretty bad to serve it. Anyway I've satisfied my curiosity and I won't make it again. Usually I like cheese-egg dishes!

At church Sunday, Dan Thompson told this real cute joke. The Sunday School teacher had asked the children to draw pictures of things that God had made. There were pictures of the sun, trees, mountains, etc. etc. One little guy had done an exceptionally fine picture of the sun, a tree and a little boy with his arms outstretched. The teacher made a favorable comment on the boys' pictures. Then the little boy surprised him with "Yes, God made it all and with his left hand, too". "Why with his left hand?" Well, because Jesus was sitting on his right hand."

MR. AND MRS. Jeffrey Burnett (nee: Nancy Baker)

Burnett-Baker Nuptials in Ione

Blue and green were the colors Nancy Baker chose for her Dec. 30 wedding to Jeffrey Burnett. Wedding vows were exchanged at St. William's Catholic Church in Ione.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Father Raymond Beard before an altar decorated with baskets of white gladioli, white roses and blue dutch irises.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. David Baker of Ione and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Burnett of Pendleton.

Serving the bridal couple as maid of honor was Paula Robinson of Pendleton and Mike Jolke of Pendleton as best man. Bridesmaids were the bride's sisters Shirley and Debby of Ione. Danny Burnett, brother of the bridegroom and Rod Jolke of Pendleton were ushers. Ricky Doherty and Danny McElligott served at Mass.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white floor length gown accented with lace inserts, fashioned with long sleeves and a fingertip

Mantilla veil. She carried a bridal bouquet of white roses and white gladioli.

Blue, Green, Bride's Choice
The white dinner jackets of the ushers formed a handsome background to the bride's color theme emphasized by her attendant's full floor length dresses with matching net circles. The maid of honor was in blue, the bridesmaids in green, and each carried a colonial bouquet of white button chrysanthemums and blue carnations with blue and green ribbon streamers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Baker was dressed in pink wool with rose accessories. Mrs. Burnett wore blue wool with black accessories and each lady wore a lovely white rosebud corsage presented by the bride.

During the wedding ceremony music was furnished by Gary Green, who sang Panis Angelicus, O Perfect Love and Ava Marie accompanied by Mrs. Dale F. Bennett, aunt of the bride.

Reception Follows
A reception honoring the newly married couple was held in the church basement following the ceremony. The serving table was attractively arranged with an antique service set, courtesy of Mrs. Verner Troedson. The centerpiece of white gladioli and blue dutch irises was placed in a silver bowl loaned by Mrs. Charles Doherty.

Centered on the cake table was a three-tiered white wedding cake cleverly decorated with white bells and blue roses.

Following the traditional first slice by the couple, the cake was served by Mrs. Ivan Orton and Mrs. Clarence Baker, aunts of the bride. Mrs. Nona Sowell poured the coffee and Marshall Sowell served the punch. Joan Marie Doherty was in charge of the guest book.

Out-of-town relatives attending the ceremony were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Baker of Woodburn and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gorgor of Pendleton. The bridegroom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burnett attended from Pendleton. Guests from other areas included Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Orton and Robbie of Woodburn, Mrs. Pauline Gorgor of Portland and Carmen Paramo of Mexico City.

For her going-away ensemble, the bride wore a brown plaid pant suit with brown accessories.

Following a wedding trip to the Oregon Coast, the couple are at home in Pendleton where they are students at BMCC. Nancy graduated from St. Mary of the Valley Academy at Beaverton and is taking nursing courses. Jeff, a Pendleton High School graduate, is a third year Pre-Pharmacy student.

Of Interest to Women

Molly Saul Inspires Women with Visit

Keeping Foods Safe to Eat was the timely topic presented this month at several Home Extension meetings by Molly Saul, Umatilla-Morrow County Home Extension agent. Last week she presented the study at Rhea Creek, Ione and Heppner.

The Heppner Home Extension group met at the home of Mrs. Felix Schwarzin. Mrs. Saul arrived from the Ione discussion in time to enjoy the luncheon with the Heppner women.

She had a number of bulletins with guides for Keeping Food Safe to Eat. Poor food handling practices in the home often cause illness in the family even though the foods were safe to eat when purchased or first prepared.

Molly stressed cleanliness: wash hands thoroughly before handling any food. Wash them again after handling raw meats, poultry and vegetables. Keep working surfaces, drainboards and utensils scrupulously clean. Cook poultry, pork and ground meat until well done. A temperature of 165 degrees will destroy Salmonella. Beef steaks and beef roasts would have on surface contamination and could safely be served rare.

Cooked food that has not been consumed should be promptly refrigerated. Most fruits, meats and vegetables can be safely kept more than 3 to 5 days in the refrigerator but the quality begins to deteriorate.

In general, food that is safe to cook and eat is safe to refreeze.

Units look forward to Molly's visit each year. Along with the exceptional lesson that she teaches, the women enjoy her rare sense of humor, her interest in everyone and her impeccable dress.
