Mr. and Mrs. Prindle Go To East Coast

Mr. and Mrs. Milo Prindle and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stuchell of Everett, and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Kaufman of Omak, Wn., all of Kinzua Corp., and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Corn of Bellevue, who is with Caterpillar, were in Atlanta, Ga., last week. The men attended a Southern Products Assn. Machinery Show.

They were looking for machinery that will handle the smaller logs when Kinzua, Heppner, starts their green veneer operations. They went out on logging operations one day. Due to the rapid growth pine makes in the south, the annual rings may be as wide as an inch or two.

The weather was much as it is here with lilacs blooming, frosted one night and they experienced an electrical storm.

The women were hosted to luncheons and tours of the area. They shopped in underground Atlanta. Mrs. Prindle said she especially liked her visit to the Little White House at Warm Springs where President Roosevelt lived.

They ate on The Polaris, similar to Seattle's Space Needle. They visited a cousin who formerly lived at Hardman, Lester Ashbaugh. They live about an hour out of Atlanta. They raise Charolais cattle.

Their daughter and family, The William Bells of The Dalles were here for Mother's Day with the Prindles. Mr. Bell is sheriff of Wasco County.

DOTS JOTS

It was a tasty lunch the Methodist women served at their Lawn Sale. Just right for a busy Saturday in their cool basement. Sandwiches, salads, pickles, potato chips and heavenly desserts and coffee.

They served over 100 at their luncheon co-chaired by Mrs. Kenneth Batty and Mrs. Howard Bryant.

Those brilliant yellow and orange Iceland poppies on each table came from Hazel Vaughan's garden.

I had a piece of Rhubarb Pie that Sylvia McDaniel had brought. It was absolutely delicious. She said I could print the recipe . . . and here it is.

Chiffon Rhubarb Pie

Right now while rhubarb is at its peak is a good time for me to try this spring pie.

4 cups diced rhubarb—heaped
2 cups sugar
1 tbs plain gelatin
2 tbs cold water
1 egg separated
1 dash salt
1/2 tsp almond extract
scant cup whipped cream

Slice rhubarb fine and cover with sugar for 12 hours in the refrigerator.

Simmer rhubarb on low heat for 20 min.

Put gelatin to soak in cold water. Add to rhubarb as you take it from the stove. Stir well.

Beat egg yolk. Gradually add to very hot mixture. Add salt. Cool until begins to set.

Beat egg white until stiff. Add almond extract, egg white and whipped cream. Pour into baked pie shell. Set for three hours.

April was a slow month with everyone paying their income tax and all. We only had 10 new subscribers during April and 57 renewals.

It looks like the Spring Style show planned by the Rhea Creek Extension Unit this Saturday may be very different. The refreshments are sure to be super good because those woin claim to be the best cooks in Morrow County. The show starts at 2 p.m.

Winn will put on his famous Noodle Feed Sunday evening at the Elks Club.

Another new book at the Library: "Last Rig to Battle Mountain" by Walt Wilhelm. It has been on the best seller list for quite awhile. The Battle Mountain is in Nevada. The story of early West, it is very entertaining and "quite spicy".

Mayor Bill Collins looked mighty sharp when he threw out the first ball for the 1971 Little League baseball season Saturday. I'm sure he was wearing "what the well dressed mayor should wear." His green baseball cap complimented his green slacks and shirt . . . he was probably planning to root for the "Irish".

Among the relatives here last week for the funeral services for Mr. Charles Jones were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Griffin and daughter, Sheryl of Beaverton, accompanied by Mrs. Robert Meyers and daughter, Cindy of Sherwood.

Ione Rainbow Has 10th Birthday

The tenth anniversary of Ione Assembly No. 89, Order of Rainbow for Girls was observed recently. The girls entertained parents with a short skit and readings. Worthy Advisor Cindy Ekstrom, presented Mrs. Lewis Halvorsen, who has been Mother Advisor of the Assembly for ten years, with an orchid corsage in deep appreciation for her dedicated work with the girls. Other members of the Advisory Board introduced were Mrs. Rudy Bergstrom, Lewis Halvorsen, Mrs. Herbert Ekstrom, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Lindstrom.

Mrs. Halvorsen gave a brief history of the order. During the past ten years three girls, Susan Lindstrom, Bonnie Akers and Tanya Tucker, have been selected to serve as Grand Officers at Grand Assembly held each summer at OSU. An honorary degree, Grand Cross of Colors, has been bestowed on nineteen girls and advisory board members. Each year a girl is chosen from this assembly to sing in the Grand Choir. Five girls have been Grand Representatives and one has served as a Grand Page at Grand Assembly.

Girls can join Rainbow, dedicated to service, when they are twelve years old and can be long until they are twenty. They then receive a majority certificate that entitles them to visit Rainbow at any time. There are nineteen officers and the girls change officers in January, May and September. Sixty-nine girls have belonged to the Ione Assembly and fifteen different adults have assisted as members of the Advisory Board.

Space Adventure Heard by Bookworms

"The Throne of Saturn" by Allen Drury was the book reviewed at the April 27 meeting of the Bookworms at the home of Mrs. George Currin.

Mrs. Herman Winter, as reviewer, recommended the book to anyone interested in the space program or an absorbing adventure story.

The author, probably best known for his Pulitzer Prize-winning "Advice and Consent" sets this recently published novel in the late 1970's and deals with the problems and public reaction of American Astronauts going to Mars.

Complexities increase with Russian interference as the American President (unidentified in the book) pursues another "space race."

Drury, who presents his material in more of a futuristic manner rather than science-fiction, condemns the period of inactivity in the American space program and his novel stands to graphically illustrate his reasons.

The next Bookworms meeting is tentatively scheduled for Tuesday, June 8 at the home of Mrs. Harold Erwin with Mrs. George Currin as reviewer.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Wald, Ukiah and Mrs. Lula White, Pilot Rock, visited Sunday afternoon and evening with Mrs. Amanda Duvall, Mrs. White and Mrs. Duvall are sisters and Mr. Wald is their nephew.

Kathy Keene and Tracy Malmerich of Portland spent a recent weekend here with her folks, Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Keene, Richard and Stuart. Kathy works for Dunhill of Portland Inc. and Tracy works for Lamb Weston.
