What ever else you may say about Al Martin, and you can say plenty, he has my admiration for the way he kept at improving the old Elementary building. He has some truth-telling pictures of before and after the improvements. If you get a chance, see them! The toilet rooms, the shower rooms, the dressing room. It is remarkable what the improvements do for morale and vandalism.

If you went to the Methodist Lawn Sale and luncheon, you saw the vivid hues of the Iceland poppies that centered the luncheon tables. Absolutely the brightest orange and yellows, hazel Vaughan who raises these lovelies brought me some plants. They reseed themselves so I should have a showy patch someday. I am delighted.

Can you imagine meeting someone from Lone Rock in a busy Chicago train depot? We did and he had taught at Lone Rock when Pop Huddleston, then living in Pilot Rock, was chairman of the Board.

It was the result of this meeting and doing a story earlier on Pop Huddleston that prompted us to go to Lone Rock before we had been in Heppner six months. This is an interesting trip and one we hope to repeat this spring. Now a note from Sadie Parrish, who is one of Pop Huddleston's daughters, says she talked Saturday to the man we met in Chicago who was an old school teacher of hers! Fun! Fun!
