

Mutual Party Held For Irrigon Couples

By FRANCES ROSE WILSON

IRRIGON—A double surprise party for Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Berger and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jorgensen was the occasion for the meeting held at the Irrigon Lions Club building Saturday, June 12. The Bergers were honored on their 40th wedding anniversary and the Jorgensens on their 33rd.

Hostesses planning the affair were Mrs. Ernest Jorgensen, Mrs. Maxwell Jones and Mrs. Lee LeBlanc. Mrs. Jorgensen, earnestly engaged in planning for the Bergers, was unaware that the others were planning a surprise for them as well. Both couples have been actively engaged in community affairs and in Lions Club and Auxiliary activities.

City Council Meeting

Transfer of funds and general year-end business occupied the Irrigon City Council most of the evening at its June meeting.

A report on the street oiling contract, which was just completed by Percy Jellum of Pendleton, revealed that total footages surfaced were 11,425, and exceeded original estimates which had not considered the radius at the street intersections.

Most of the oiling cost is covered by monies from State street fund allocations designated for that purpose, although $1800 had been included toward the cost from the General Fund in the next fiscal year beginning July 1. By using the balance of the contingency, amounting to $1191, left in the General Fund and borrowing the balance owing from the City Hall Building Reserve Fund, the total project cost of $9140 can be met. These latter borrowed funds must be repaid from funds received from State Street monies.

Sprinkler Irrigation Show Set for Eugene

Labor saving equipment will be the star attraction at the Sprinkler Irrigation '71 show at Eugene June 23-27.

Displays and demonstrations of the newest sprinkler irrigation equipment will be a featured part of Grasslands '71 scheduled for Eugene's Mahlon Sweet Airport. The sprinkler show is sponsored by the National Sprinkler Irrigation Association, reports Marvin Shearer, Oregon State University extension irrigation specialist.

For the commercial farmer, this means mechanical move systems and sophisticated "solid set" installations. For the homeowner, it means permanent systems operated by time clocks or innovations developed to reduce the "hose moving" chore.

Numerous side roll systems, proven adaptable to a wide range of field and soil conditions over the last 20 years, will be shown, but irrigation systems applying water while they move will stir the imagination of the farmers during the show, Shearer believes.

Among these systems will be "travelers" or individual sprinklers with large nozzles discharging 300 to 600 gallons per minute as they are pulled through fields; center pivot systems rotating around a fixed point while putting up to 1,300 gallons per minute on 130 acres of land, and a self-propelled lateral which moves in a straight line while it irrigates square or rectangular fields.

Although the big equipment may catch the eye, there will be plenty in the show for the homeowner, Shearer emphasizes, including the opportunity to discuss individual home lawn equipment problems with manufacturers and their representatives.

Persons planning on installing lawn irrigation systems are invited to bring lot sketches with them and get expert opinions on material and designs, Shearer adds.

the fresh oil without cause, were sharply criticized during the discussion of street problems. It was also noted that some damage had resulted from careless maneuvering of vehicles on the streets. It was pointed out that citations could be issued for damage regardless of the cause.

Marshal Perry Pummel was appointed as water superintendent effective July 1. Because of his close association with the system during construction, Mayor Wilson had requested that he serve in that capacity for a time after it was put in service to assure satisfactory operation and that post construction obligations were met by the contractor. The City does not have a full time employee.

The Council ratified an agreement between Morrow County and its cities. This intergovernmental association will operate in place of the previously formed Council of Governments.

The Council also approved a request by Marshal Pummel for an additional man to help him police the area during the Lions Club sponsored July 4 celebration.
