There will again be a Pomona attendance contest with prizes awarded at the end of the year.

We were sorry to hear that Mary Schwarz was back in St. Anthony Hospital. Last week I wrote "Mrs. Len Ray Schwarz is in St. Anthony Hospital." Annie called to tell me she was receiving all kinds of "Get well cards". So send your cards to Mrs. Len Schwarz because she is still over there. She underwent surgery on Monday. Len came home Tuesday evening and said she was doing well.

To Alabama

We went to Alabama to spend Thanksgiving with Don and Sylvia... their first in their new home in Huntsville. We argue the merits of various forms of transportation. Don says the only way to go is to fly and it is if you don't have much time. The time we went back on the bus is the trip I liked the best for the things you get to see.

But we were short of time so we flew this time. We go back every other year and they come out here the other years so we see them at least once a year.

Flying is amazing. We took off from Portland at 7 o'clock in the morning with overcast skies. To Seattle and then east. I hate flying above the clouds but I do love the sunshine. I was trying to identify where we were when the clouds broke and I could see contour, strip farming that finally gave way to large fields that I knew would have to be flat land. I tried to make a river the Platte river in Nebraska. The pilot came on the loud speaker to tell us we were over the Bad Lands in the Dakotas! So we must have been flying over Montana. Then we hit clouds again and it was snowing nasty when we landed at St. Louis. More clouds all the way to Huntsville at 2 p.m. It was 47 degrees—just two degrees warmer than when we'd left Seattle.

Charlie is generous in that he always lets me sit by the window; on the other hand he doesn't like heights so maybe he isn't being so generous! I had never completed reading "Homesteads and Heritages" and I almost got it finished. I enjoyed it immensely.

They feed you all the time so there wasn't really much time for reading. Usually Charlie gets stuck with scrambled eggs and he hates them. That morning he kept talking about dollar pancakes. Would you believe that's what we had? Dollar hot-cakes and little smoked sausages. But on our return flight Monday morning he was back on scrambled eggs!

It's great fun visiting the south but I'd rather live in the northwest!

Bellenbrocks Say 'No Gifts' at Their 25th Anniversary

Friends who plan to attend the Open House honoring Mr. and Mrs. Don Bellenbrock on their 25th Wedding Anniversary this Sunday, are asked not to bring gifts.

The afternoon has been planned by Mr. and Mrs. Larry Bellenbrock, Heppner, and Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Gribble, La Grande, to honor Don and June Bellenbrock.

HEPPNER CHOSEN

Mrs. Henry Tetz, formerly of Heppner but now of Salem, has completed her calls to the Heppner area for a new type of Muscular Dystrophy fund drive. Heppner has been chosen as the test site for a door-to-door type of drive. Formerly the latter approach has been used. Anyone who is missed and wishes to contribute may turn his money into First National.

so all Grangers beat get out and help your Grange win this year's prize. Each visitation night starts with a potluck dinner at 6:30 p.m. A lovely dinner was served by the Willows Grange ladies at the close of the meeting.

Seven Super Sewers

Dec. 4, our sewing group was renamed by Paula Lindstrom. Paula, a girl in the 4th grade, started the club. Yvonne White and Arlynda Aldrich were gone. We had our meeting at Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Martin's. Lisa served refreshments. We sewed buttons and snaps on material. Martha McElligott, reporter
