

Jack Sumner Talks Issues

JACK SUMNER

Jack Sumner who planned to file yesterday for nomination to the office of State Representative in the 55th District in the State Legislature said there are a host of issues present now and facing future legislative bodies.

He said these issues include tax relief, environmental quality control, alcohol and drug usage, zoning, consumer protection, education. Mr. Sumner feels these issues and others that will face your representative are very important but cautions that all legislative acts should be well thought out. Some of these well-intentioned acts impose conditions and restrictions that are difficult to meet for individuals, firms, organizations and local governments without the added costs created. Most people, he explains, have had an experience when it was necessary to meet an imposed standard which resulted in increased costs and burdens. Another example would be the result of legislation which corrects a situation for a certain area or interest group but at the same time, unintentionally, creates a detrimental effect elsewhere.

He says this type of legislation must be limited. He emphasizes that governmental bodies must exercise care in spending as they are a large contributor to inflation.

Mr. Sumner points out that there is not a town in the district over 2000 population, and only four of over 1000 population. This is a rural district with no direct influence of a large population concentration. Timber and agriculture are the major industries. Therefore, he says, he feels that the extensive background he has in agriculture, education, business in the operation of a large farm and participation in organizations and services will help him qualify to be your representative for District 55. He said he will endeavor to represent one and all.

"The services you perform for others is the price you pay for the space you occupy on this earth," says Mr. Sumner. "In seeking to be your representative and my desire to serve the needs and wishes of the people is my attempt to help pay some rent."
