Heavy grain exports brighten outlook, economy

A market favorable to Pacific Northwest grain producers is in prospect for the next six months thanks to heavy exports which have cut carryover stocks below earlier expectations, says S.C. Marks, Oregon State University extension agricultural economist.

Marks makes his comments in the spring Oregon Farm and Market Outlook circular published by the OSU Extension Service and available at County Extension Offices.

Exports in April, May and June cut sharply into the potential carryover of white wheat. Indications are now the carryover will be about 17 million bushels, well above last year, but less than expected earlier this year.

This means that the storage situation for the slightly larger 1972 harvest which is indicated for the Pacific Northwest has improved, Marks notes.

The Northwest winter wheat crop was estimated at 190 million bushels the first of June, up seven percent from 1971 production. Spring wheat seedings are down sharply from last year. It is expected that Spring wheat production will be reduced about 36 percent to around 16.8 million bushels.

The total wheat production in the three Northwest states could amount to 206 million bushels, just slightly more than the 1971 all-wheat crop. However, weather and possible shifts in acreage will influence the final total, Marks notes.

World wheat supply prospects are of particular interest to Northwest growers this year because of potential export trade with the Soviet Union and China, the economist adds.

Western Europe has prospects for a large crop this year. India expects to top last year's record production, while Canada has expanded wheat acreage for harvest this year. Australia expects a larger carryover, about 496 million bushels this year, although down from 1969 and 1970. Argentina looks for some carryover increase.

Class of '62

Heppner High School's graduating class of 1962 is now making plans for their ten-year class reunion to be held July 22 and 23 in Heppner.

The activities will begin at 5:30 Saturday with a social hour at the Elks Club, followed by dinner at 7:00 p.m. After dinner, the class will welcome any friends, parents or others who want to school with them.

Sunday there will be a family picnic, the site of which is not known and will not be announced until Saturday evening.

A formal invitation has been extended to Vi Lanham, Roy Kirk and Gordon Pratt, class advisors. The class would also like to invite all teachers who taught the class from grade school through high school. For dinner reservations, contact Sandra Hill at 676-5380 or Ladd Dick at 676-5060.

Anyone knowing the addresses or whereabouts of Joyce Neilson or Norma Ferguson is asked to contact one of the above numbers. The ladies are probably married now so their last names will not be as they were at graduation. Their married names are not known.

Jill and Jim Oregon Winners

Jim Van Winkle rides "00" in the final round of competition at the Burns Rodeo July 9. Jim was named Oregon's High School Champion Bull-rider, which qualifies him for the national finals to be held in Henderson, Colo., beginning Aug. 1.

JILL RUGG, who won title of Oregon's High School All-Around Cowgirl. At the state meet last weekend in Burns, she had won first in breakaway calf roping, second in goat tying and split third & fourth in the barrel race.

Heppner team third; two to nationals

Five members of the Heppner High School Rodeo team placed third in the state at the Burns Rodeo July 7, 8 and 9. Twenty-five schools from throughout Oregon competed: Pendleton High was first and Redmond, second. The Heppner team was able to do as well as they did because all five placed in the final round of competition Sunday. In order to participate in the finals, the entrant had to place in both Friday and Saturday's events.

Jill Rugg and Jim Van Winkle were named Oregon's High School All-Around Cowgirl and Oregon's High School of Champion Bullrider. Jill placed first in the breakaway calf roping, second in goat tying, and split third and fourth in the barrel race. Jim was first in the bull riding. Both are now eligible for the national finals, to be held in Henderson, Colo., beginning Aug. 1.

Harold Peck heads Democrats

The newly elected committeemen and women for the Democratic Party met June 28 at Lexington. New officers were elected: Harold Peck, chairman; Rita Sumner, vice-chairman; Elizabeth Abrams, secretary; and Al Bunch, treasurer. Lyle Peck and Edna Peck were elected alternate delegates to the central committee. Elizabeth Abrams was elected as the extra delegate who will attend the meeting August 4, 5, and 6 with the chairman, vice-chairman and Jack Sumner, who is a legislature representative nominee and automatically goes to the convention.

The main purpose of the meeting was to find a plan for financing the party. With only $40 in the treasury and an important election coming up, more money is needed. Contributions may be made to your favorite Democrat or to the Democratic Party. Donations can be sent to Al Bunch, Heppner.

Marquardt Ranch Fire

The Carl Marquardt's had a grass fire at their ranch last Wednesday. What was thought to have been a dead fire flared up and considerable damage was done. Two bunk houses were destroyed. A useable printing press was destroyed in the blaze, a camper and 150 treated fence posts. The high flames hit the power lines and shorted out the water pump so they were without water. Neighbors came from everywhere to help put out the blaze.

Over 100 people came from a wide area to assist, a number bringing fire fighting equipment.

McDaniels Family Reunion

The annual McDaniel family Reunion will be held July 16 at Anson Wright Park. Coffee will be furnished for the potluck dinner that will be served about noon. Last year 120 gathered to eat and visit.

Three McDaniel brothers, Sam, Ed and Bill, came out from the East in the 1900's and settled in the Hardman area. They ranched and had a lumber mill.

Rea Ranch Fire

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Rea were thankful that their barley was too green to burn last week when a range grass fire burned up to the end of their barley field and stopped. Water is still on the barley. The fire believed to have started from a flicked cigarette burned over rangelands of considerable acreage. Grass hoppers are said to have hopped out in front of the fire.

Bud Marshall chairman - GOP Organizes

Bud Marshall of Heppner was elected chairman of the Morrow County Republican Central Committee at an organizational meeting of precinct committeemen and women Wednesday at Boardman. Mrs. Laurel Van Marter was elected vice chairman, Mrs. Ned Clark, secretary.

I.M. Docken was elected alternate chairman to the State Central Committee and Mrs. Pauline Winter alternate vice chairman.

Named as the two congressional committeemen who function in case of vacancy in the Republican nomination for US Congress were Don Adams of Irrigon and Mrs. Ralph Crum of Ione.

Five District nominating committeemen who function in the case of a vacancy in the Republican nomination for the State Legislature are Bernice Struckmeier, Oscar Peterson, Lucille Peck, Ned Clark and Bob Abrams.

Carl Marquardt last year's county GOP chairman was elected as delegate to the State Convention.

Merchants plan to wear Centennial clothes during the Sidewalk Bazaar.

Chalk Up One

The first week response for the Heppner Centennial Volunteer Band was tremendous, one lady agreed to play though she hasn't played for almost twenty years. So now there is a director and one E-flat horn. Would anybody like to play a drum?

I've been around a little this week to find out that Ione has hired a band director, but she won't be here until a few days before the parade. Heppner schools have no band director yet, at least there was none on June 28th. Therefore the bands for the parade will not just suddenly appear because of the efforts of a band director. There are no teachers here to round them up. But the question of a band still remains. If you are interested, please express it, maybe even persuade someone to participate, in fact some effort in that direction will really be appreciated. We should have about thirty-five to forty people to have a good solid sound.

There are probably thirty-five to forty very reluctant but good musicians around here. It comes down to each person making a choice whether or not to do it, and you don't have to be a virtuoso. Please join the band.

Pecks Take 3rd Sweep Stakes at Condon

Heppner took three Sweep Stakes at the Condon Fourth of July parade. These included the Rodeo and Fair Court and the Chamber float and the old cars. Queen Susie French, Princess Kerry Coppock, Princess Debbie McCoy, Princess Patty Luciani and Princess Anne Hoskins were accompanied by the permanent Penant Bearers, Patty Daly, Sherry Kemp, Judy Bennett and Michelle Evans.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Peck took Sweep Stakes in the Old Cars. Harold drove a 1907 International with handsome brass carbide lamps as well as kerosene lamps. The motor is air cooled. Harold wore his duster and "skimmer." Mrs. Peck wore a high collar dress and an old fashioned straw hat with big pink roses.

They trailed the antique car to Condon as they want to conserve the hard rubber tires. They especially enjoy the response from the crowd along the parade route as spectators register disbelief and enthusiasm for the handsome vehicle.

Centennial Sidewalk Bazaar here next week

The big annual Sidewalk Bazaar is due here next week. Heppner merchants plan a wide selection of bargains that will be on display on the sidewalks on July 21st. The sale will continue the next day but remaining bargain items will mostly be inside the stores.

Interesting booths will be manned by local organizations in the gala spirit of carnival in honor of Heppner's Centennial year.

Special features are a Greased Pole Climb with a cash prize for the lucky and intrepid climbers; and there will be a cash treasure hunt, too.

Everyone from far and near is cordially invited to come and look and participate.

On July 22, the Ione Grand Squares will present a Square Dance at 8:30 p.m. The Princess Kerry Coppock Dance starts at 9:30 p.m.

Kinzua Corp. buys timber

Kinzua Corp. has purchased several lots of U.S. Forest Service timber recently.

Lower Ditch timber sale was purchased by Kinzua Corporation, the only bidder, for $176,127. This was the appraised price for the estimated 3,700,000 board feet volume and 625 acres of material appraised and sold at $0.64 per acre. The sale area is situated on Heppner Ranger District, mainly in Morrow County, about 36 miles southeast of Heppner. Ponderosa pine was priced at $53.15 and Douglas-fir at $18.27.

Little Bear timber sale was sold to Kinzua Corporation the only bidder, for the appraised price of $105,587. The estimated volume is 2,000,000 board feet and 510 acres of material sold by the acre. The sale area on the Heppner Ranger District in Morrow County is about 13 miles south of Heppner in the Alder and Wildcat Creek drainages south of Western Route Road S-518. Final bid prices per thousand board feet were $56.50 for ponderosa pine, and $30.79 for Douglas-fir and other coniferous species. In addition, the per acre material was appraised and sold at the rate of $0.59 per acre.

How Much Water to Store Behind Willow Creek Dam Is Corps Next Question!

Representatives of the Water Resource Board, the Bureau of Reclamation and Corps of Engineers met with the Morrow County Court Wednesday afternoon to discuss project investigations related to the proposed Willow Creek Dam.

The Corps of Engineers has been instructed to go ahead with their final design memorandum. When this stage of their study is complete, they will be ready to begin construction. One of the first decisions they must make is how large to build the reservoir. In order to do this they must know how much space will be needed for irrigation. The irrigation space will be determined by the extent landowners desire to participate.

A letter has been sent by the Bureau of Reclamation to all landowners with water rights on the creek to explain water supply studies, operation and maintenance costs of the project and that cost for water would be $3.60 per acre foot delivered to diversion point.

New Forest Service Building

The Heppner City Council approved the application of a building permit for the conditional use of a public building on lots 1 and 2 of Block 4 in the new Rasmussen Lott Addition Wednesday evening. If there is no appeal filed within 15 days, construction on the new Forest Service building will get underway. This is the land within the sweeping horseshoe curves just above Clarence Rosewall's lot.

The one-story building of 5060 square feet will be built at a cost estimated at $53,000. to $56,000. The building 46 X 110 feet will be built of masonry with a shake roof. Henry Peterson of Pocatello, Idaho won the bid from General Services and will lease the building to the Forest Service. H & M Construction of Pendleton is the builder.

A representative from the H & M Construction Co. was present to show the blue prints for the new building and to answer questions from the Council.

Warren Plocharsky who is building a home several lots away and Clarence Rosewall who has completed construction of a home within 500 feet of the proposed structure voiced no objections to the conditional use in a residential zone.

The council questioned the number of parking spaces and the use of the streets by tourists. There was one opposing vote.
