DOTS JOTS

It's no wonder that the Morrow County Fair and Rodeo Court is receiving so many firsts. They aren't practicing riders, they are all working cow hands on their home ranches. Relaxed in the saddle, each one can devote all her attention to smiling and being friendly with the crowd. This typing with your left hand is something else again! I really can't be off work long because I wouldn't want Charlie to find out he could run the paper without me! THE PLANS OF MICE AND MEN ARE OFTEN LED ASTRAY.....Friday after work we'd planned to take Chas', mother home to M-F and then we were going on to Joseph to visit our friends the Jerry Brights, go to the Shrine Breakfast where we see so many old friends, see the parade, and I wanted to get a pic of the court...then come home...but none did we do. ON FRIDAY I'd just finished taking pictures of Court St. Market for their Centennial ad and had started down the Court House steps. My sandals slipped and I knew I was going down. I threw my camera onto the grass. As I went down I hit the wall with my head and I suppose I broke my arm when I tried to break my fall. Anyway, when I stopped I remembered looking at my right arm and saying "I've broken my arm". Blood was flowing from cuts on my head. I grasped my broken arm and started for help at Court St. Market. When I got to the bottom of the steps Sheriff Mollahan stopped, "Dorothy, what ever happened?" I told him I'd fallen down the Court House steps and would he take me to the hospital, call the doctor and call Charlie and please pick up my camera and glasses. Ann from our office was in the City Hall when he radioed in that he was taking me to the hospital, etc. Elaine cut in and told them that Ann would get word to Charlie. I was in the emergency room, surgery, recovery room and finally ended up with another Dorothy...Warren. I am mighty thankful for our little hospital. It had been 20 years since I'd been in a hospital. Bedpans are just as cold as they ever were! It was a delightfully cheerful place and the nurses are friendly as well as efficient! I am mighty lucky; I'm just going to be mighty glad to get this cast off in 8-weeks.

MR. & MRS. FORRIE BURKEMBINE and family returned Sunday from a week's vacation on the Oregon Coast, towing the trailer they used while away. "The weather was beautiful," Gail reported.
