Early Lexington Newspaper is Rare Padberg Keepsake

By Justine Weatherford

Mrs. Oris Padberg (Catie) is a careful keeper of family records. In her big Fridley family Bible which was given to her mother Marjetta Woodruff by her father Lewis Fridley at the time of their marriage in 1896, Catie has tucked some very special notes and papers, mostly concerning the Fridley and Padberg families, but one, an early Lexington newspaper is of interest to everyone.

"Published every Thursday evening by Snow & Whitson; terms of subscription—one year, $1.00, six months, 50 cents—invariably in advance. Rates of Advertising: one square (Ten lines or less), first insertion $1.00, each subsequent insertion, 50 cents. Special rates with regular advertisers. All transient advertisements must be paid for in advance. Job Printing of every description executed with neatness and dispatch." Mrs. Padberg's copy is Vol. 2, No. 34, Thursday May 22, 1890 (just over 82 years old.)

Horse Shoe Contest set for Rodeo Saturday

The Morrow County Jaycees have announced that they will sponsor a horseshoe pitching contest on August 26th in conjunction with the Fair and Rodeo at the corner of Main and Center Streets, across from Cal's ARCO. President Cliff Wood stated that the event will begin at 10:00 a.m., and continue until such time as all contestants have had a reasonable opportunity to participate. Single elimi-

CONTENTS OF PAPER

This six column, four page newspaper is about two-thirds articles and a big one-third advertising. On the front page under the masthead, the first column contains these ads: L. F. Shipley, M.D., practitioner of Medicine, Surgery & Midwifery; E. P. Sine, Attorney-at-Law and Notary Public; Frank Kellogg, Attorney-at-Law and Notary Public; R. Lieullen, General Blacksmith and Horseshoer; G. W. Brock, Wagon and Carriage Maker; Elkhorn Livery and Feed Stable; Neise Magnuson, Proprietor—horses boarded by the day or week. FIRST PAGE STORIES

Besides the masthead and the column of ads, the first page has a poem, and an almost three column romantic short story, and three half-column articles. The articles are: Likes and Dislikes, an essay reprinted from the Pittsburg Chronicle; New York's Plutocrats, an account of the origin of the fortunes of the Astors, the Vanderbilts and the Lorards, reprinted from the New York Times; and a success story under the title Millionaire for a Day.

Page two has the editorials, more ads, a listing of short personal items. The editorials seem to endorse Democrats and the lead one attacks the Heppner Gazette which seems to have supported the Republicans in the primary election, strong phrases are used: "Like an ink-squid of the sea that discolors the water around it when pursued by a superior force or about to seize its prey, the Gazette has thrown out unlimited quantities of ingeniously-concocted rot and surrounded itself and the ring with a cloud of deceit, in the vain effort to elude defeat and gobble up voters whom it hoped to blind. But the majority of voters of this county know the character of the ring, the manner in which the republican primaries and convention were worked, and can see through the delusions with which the ring organ would hide the whole disreputable business. Confident of its strength, the ring did its work with such arrogance and impudence that its designs were apparent. It went too far and aroused an opposition the strength of which it has not calculated. Seeing too late the storm it had created and which threatened to overwhelm it, the Gazette was made its organ and defender, and that paper has by every means at its command tried to lessen the probability of defeat for the republican county ticket."

SEVERAL SHORT ITEMS

Also attacks the "Republican Ring". For example: "Bunchgrassers will not cast their votes to joint senator in favor of a man who considers them as so much merchandise, to be bought for $2.50 each in cash or roll of barbed wire and a side of bacon." "How do the bunch-grassers of Morrow County like the appellation of easily-duped farmers' as applied to them by the Gazette? They will give the answer on election day in such a way as to convince the ring and its organ that the 'easily-duped farmers' have sufficient intelligence to know a friend from a hypocritical foe, and will elect the democratic county ticket in proof thereof." It sure looks like the old town papers did their part to foster hard feelings between communities.

MORE ADVERTISEMENTS

Pages two and three carry a variety of ads, mostly legal notices on p. 2, there are 7 Notices of Intention that begin "Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the County Judge of Morrow County at Heppner, Or., on (date given), signed John W. Lewis, Register. There is also a notice concerning the transfer of the accounts of The Gooseberry Store from J.E. Kirk & Co. to N.R. McVay; a Notice of Contest from the Land Office at The Dalles states that F.L. Hoskins complains that a Timber Culture Entry has been abandoned. Snow & Whitson, Real Estate Agents, at Lexington have used several columns of their paper to list wonderful real estate bargains, fine farms, timber culture claims, business lots in Lex., a quarter section of deeded land, house and lot in Lex.

More ads are from: George P. Morgan, Land Law Specialist, The Dalles, Brown & Hamilton, Attorneys and Counselors at Law in Heppner; B.F. Swagart advertising for those wishing to raise mules to obtain the services of a thoroughbred Kentucky Jack. PAGE THREE

Page 3 has community reports from Dry Fork by Gringo; Arlington, by Astral; Jordan Fork by Topsy; Gooseberry by Snowshoe., and a full column of Brief Notes. The names assumed by the authors of these columns are most amusing.

FROM WOMAN'S WORLD

The bottom section of the Woman's world column is "What Can I Do?" and gives sage advice: "A hundred thousand girls in different parts of the Union are now asking themselves and all their friends what they shall do for a living. The answer is easy. Do that which you like best and can do best. In every sensible, intelligent girl's soul there is an intuition that one certain kind of work is what she can do best, and will call out all the enthusiasm of her soul. The occupation may be a humble one in the world's eyes. No matter. It is your work. It is wrong and wicked for parents to force either girls or boys into occupations that are distasteful to them. Many a starving sixteen-year-old musician would have made a first-class cook. So choose your own occupation, and then work up to the highest in it. Do not stop till you reach the highest. A genius is one who never gives up. Every boy and girl has high and dazzling dreams of the future. The strong and the persevering realize those dreams in one shape or another, perhaps not always as they first expected, but in a nobler, better way often. So, girls, find your ideal work for yourselves, and then do it joyfully and in the ideal way. Make your dreams realities."

Looks like "doing your own thing" was going, in 1890, according to the column in the Lexington Weekly Budget --so what is really new?

Ads on p. 3, are by Wm. Penland Co., Wm. Blair manager; the Boss Cash Store of W.B. McAlister; Henry Padberg's City Drug Store, Dr. E.T. Goeghegan, pharmacist and manager; The Lexington Hotel, J.W. Redford, Prop.; David & Burgoyne's Lexington Flour Mill, Coffin & McFarland, general merchandise, groceries, hardware, Mitchell wagons, plows, etc. Heppner; Union Pacific RR ticket office, Arlington; S.B. Hope Chop Mill.

The back page has two feature columns, Womens' World and Farm Notes, some poetry, a short story, several helpful hints and misc.

Red Cross Accepts Key Roll in "Help Aging" Project

Project FIND conceived by Dr. Arthur Fleming, chairman of the White House Conference on Aging is designed to help up to two million more Americans aged 60 and over obtain additional food. As outlined by Dr. Fleming, the project purpose is two-fold: to relieve the problem of malnutrition among the aging and to show older persons that an arm of American Society cares about their circumstances.

In order to meet the people in this group, the Treas-

ANNUAL PICNIC SUNDAY

The United Methodist Church of Heppner is planning its annual picnic, set for Aug. 13 on the Court House lawn. It will begin at 12:00 p.m. Each person is to take his own table service; the picnic is pot-luck. Drinks will be provided. The picnic will serve as a welcome home party for Rev. and Mrs. Edwin Cutting.

SUSAN DRAKE, daughter of Mrs. Grace Drake, Heppner, is home after spending six months touring Europe. She arrived at the Portland Airport Saturday. Susan Albin, a friend of hers who pner visiting.

Gene Ferguson and Phil Mahoney are home again after a tuna fishing trip. Fishing was real good. They went out about 75 miles and fished near an area frequented by Russian trawlers. It seems apparent that the Ruskies carefully watch American boats and follow up to fish the same good spots.

ALICE McCABE visited her daughter, Mrs. Butch Eubanks at Gresham last week. She brought back some luscious black berries for her locker.

The boy doing the back dive off the board in the picture on the Editorial Page of last week's Gazette-Times is Damon McGill. Damon is Barbara Jessmer's nephew. He is 13 years old and is spending the summer here, like he does each year. He lives in Eureka, Ca.

MRS. ED GONTY and Miss Mildred Clowery drive to The Dalles Thursday to take the Gonty grand children to meet their mother and to visit their grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. Chef Liebrand.

sure Department mailed with Social Security checks a project message and follow-up cards. The returned cards will be separated by zip codes and turned over to the Red Cross. Field Project managers will recruit and train volunteers who will carry out the follow-up effort.

Persons in Morrow County interested in volunteering for this project are asked to call Mrs. Charles Heard, unit chairman.

Each person returning a card will receive a visit by a Red Cross volunteer.

The assistance may vary widely. In some instances, it may mean providing transportation for an individual to a certifying office.

Center to hire Nutritionist

Applications are now being accepted at the Heppner Neighborhood Center for part-time nutritionist to supervise the preparation of one hot meal weekly to 20 to 25 low-income elderly people in around Heppner. The meal will be delivered to the shut-ins; others will come to the Center. Other duties will include recruitment of volunteer assistance for outreach, food service and transportation and publicity regarding the program.

The only qualifications for the job are: low-income, with a basic knowledge of nutrition and food preparation. Application deadline is Aug. 18. Duties will begin Sept. 4; the job will run for one year.

Applications can be obtained from Pat Brindle at the Neighborhood Center, or from the Blue Mountain Economic Development Council, P.O. Box 1427; or Room 34, Umatilla County Courthouse, Pendleton.

This program is an extension of the one last year at the Center.
