Reception to Honor Bill Marquardt on their 25th

All friends are cordially invited to the 25th Wedding Anniversary reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Bill Marquardt on November 4 from 2:30 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon at the Lexington

Church of Christ. The affair is being hosted by their children, Norita, Mr. and Mrs. Rick Marquardt, Bruce, Billee June Penny, Charma, Doug and Philip.

Blackallers to be "at home"

The Rev. and Mrs. David Blackaller arranged an "at home" on Oct. 21 and another one on Nov. 4 to greet members of the All Saints parish. The hours are from 7 to 10 p.m. Members whose names began with letter A to H were especially invited for Oct. 21 and the letter I to the end of the alphabet on Nov. 4. However those members who were not able to make it on the night of Oct. 21, are cordially invited to attend this Saturday evening.

As they said: "Just come. It's just our way of letting you know that we love you, that we appreciate our new home and desire to say thank you for inviting us to your community."

Golden Age Meet

There will be a Golden Age meeting on Nov. 7 at 7 p.m. in the banquet room at the Elks Club. The hostesses will be Alice McCabe and Effie Johnson with Marion Hayden acting as co-hostess.

IDA COLEMAN HOME

Ida Coleman who retired this spring as cook at the Lone Schools has made numerous trips since her retirement. This week she returned from two months of visiting in Minnesota and the Dakotas. She was accompanied by her niece Patty Crawford who did the driving.

They visited in St. Paul with Mrs. Coleman's sister, Mrs. Palmer Olson and when Mrs. Coleman went to North Dakota to visit her brother Ed Hague, Patty went on to Indiana to visit an aunt and family. One of her cousins went with her and they drove to Washington DC to see another cousin, Jean Marie Healy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Healy of Heppner.

Mrs. Coleman also visited at Fergus Falls, Minn. to visit another sister, Mrs. Henry Hingst, Mrs. Coleman's sister-in-law returned to Lone for an extended visit.

PIECRUST
Making pie crust is just not easy for me. Sometimes it's good and sometimes it isn't. One time I'd made a one crust pie and believe me that was the toughest pie crust. It was when the kids were way down in grade school and Don consoled me with "That's all right Mom, just rinse it out and use it again".

Last week I needed to make pie crust for the Soroptimist Good Food Sale Friday. I tried a recipe I had never tried before. It was so flaky and good that I want to try it again soon. It was from Mrs. Mark Hatfield's first book reMARKable Recipes page 91 Joyce's

Pie Crust:
2 cups flour
1/2 cup wesson oil
1/2 tsp salt
4 tbsp milk
Mix until flour is dampened. Roll between 2 sheets of waxed paper.

DAYLIGHT SAVING
I like Daylight Saving the year round, I guess. I hate to have the sun go down behind those hills so early in the afternoon like about 3:30. I just hate to get home after dark. I'd rather get up in the dark.

ABOUT MATTIE
It was just a short time ago that Mattie Green was in the office and we chatted about our daughter-in-law's people who come from Virginia close to the same area that she came from. I didn't know that she'd been taken back to the hospital. I loved her spirit and we'll miss her. I liked the way Rev. Cutting put it, "She was positive type Christian."
SAN FRANCISCO

Just no one loves San Francisco more than Charlie and it was fun to hear Elaine tell about her trip. I asked her about eating places. Not a list did she bring, but little goodies from two of her favorites, a sugar from Julius Castle overlooking the bay on 302 Greenwich and matches from Senor Pico, early California and Mexican foods at Ghiradelli Square. Don't know when we'll get there again but I'll hang on to these goodies because we haven't eaten at either of those places.

New book ... Chief Joseph's Alps

Dallas Green combines history, legend and lore to paint an unforgettable picture of the Wallowa, land of the Nez Perce Indians, land of the Winding Waters. With bold strokes he delineates Chief Joseph, the brilliant tactician who outmaneuvered the U.S. Cavalry until forced to surrender his exhausted tribe just thirty miles from sanctuary in Canada.

So much is history. From there, Mr. Green picks up the threads of fact and fiction to weave the story of Tender Willow and Running Deer, who are sent back into the Wallowa by Chief Joseph to reclaim the land of their ancestors and to plant anew the seeds of the glorious Nez Perce.

Mr. Green's story is of the

MR. AND MRS. PAUL JONES returned recently from a trip to the Oregon and Washington coasts. They left Portland on Oct. 22 and went over to Gearhart on the Ore. coast, traveled on to Depoe Bay, crossing over at Astoria to Port Angeles on the Wash. side. While in Washington they visited their daughter, Mrs. John Blake in Renton. Mrs. Jones said the weather on the coast was beautiful and warm with rain only one day. With no "schedule" to keep, they were able to just go whenever and wherever they pleased.

trials and triumphs of this young couple, but in the final analysis it is the story of the Wallowa, the mountains of the Nez Perce homeland, Chief Joseph's Alps. It is a tale of towering crags, rolling valleys and sparkling rivers; the unyielding land of a proud people. And so deftly does the author spin the tale that characters and landscape intertwine to create a brilliant tapestry of the form and color of the Old West.

CALLED TO TENNESSEE
Mrs. Garry Tullis was called to Tennessee last Wednesday by the death of her uncle, Guy Noe. Four years ago Mrs. Tullis and her sister-in-law, Alice Vance flew back to visit Mr. Noe and other relatives.

Chairmen make reports
Three representatives from the Inland Empire Division of the American Red Cross were here to attend the October board meeting of the Morrow County chapter. Here to give encouragement and information were John Schag, acting manager; Patricia Connell, director of volunteer services and June Wheeler, director of Red Cross Youth. They were accompanied from Pendleton by John Amort of the Umatilla County chapter and a member of the Inland Empire board.

FIRST AID
R.B. Cogburn reported on the two multi-media standard First Aid courses that have recently been completed for 16 mill workers and 22 Search and Rescue possees. They anticipate organizing another course soon for members of the ski patrol and hospital staff.

SWIMMING
Ann Toney, chapter Red Cross swimming chairman, reported on the number of participants in the Red Cross swimming program at the lone Pool and the Heppner Pool. There were 200 enrolled at Heppner and 104 at lone.

LEADERSHIP SCHOOL
Morrow County's interest in sending students to the Red Cross Leadership School was renewed with the enthusiasm generated from hearing Mrs. Connell and Mrs. Wheeler talk about the program. Board members agreed to steer towards sending four students from the Sophomore and/or Junior class next summer.

Other programs discussed were the fund drive and the Blood Drawing. The meeting followed a potluck supper held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heard.
