

Mustangs Drop Last Game to Scotties

By GREG GREEN
If Heppner proved anything last Friday night against McEwen, it was to affirm the Mustangs top gunner, John Boyer, as number one scorer in the league.
The Mustangs lost to League leader McEwen 75-61, but Boyer's 24 points gave a 22.1 point game average for the season ahead of the Scotties' Tony Villaneuva who averaged 21.8 points.
Heppner played good ball the first five minutes of the game and the last quarter. The rest of the game was controlled by the league leaders. McEwen outshot the Mustangs 51 percent - 35 percent from the field. Both teams made over half of their free throw attempts while the Scotties outrebounced Heppner 43-35.
Other top scorers for Heppner besides Boyer were Lloyd Wilson and Dave Eckman, each with 11 tallies. Dale Hedman led

Aim of the project is to allow students a unique opportunity to study a variety of vocations and professions during their high school years in preparation for selection of their career.
Mike Thorne, Oregon's youngest Senator welcomed the students to the workshop and challenged them to take advantage of the opportunity provided to look ahead and plan for their future.

Band Members Compete in Music Contest

Five Heppner High School band members competed Monday in the District Six Solo and Ensemble Contest at Hermiston Junior High School, and of the five competing, four earned an excellent rating, and one received a superior rating.
Anita Davidson, a sophomore, received a one rating on her tenor saxophone, playing a solo written by Bob DeSpain, Jr. Receiving two ratings were Dena Struthers, clarinet; Jim Marquardt, tuba; and Shannon Kelly, baritone. Junior, Jack Unrein earned a two on his trombone.

Want to learn Music?

A music fundamentals class is in planning right now, to be taught through BMCC and held at one of the schools in Heppner.
The name of the course will be Music Fundamentals. It will have college credit but only at BMCC; credit is not transferable.
Bob DeSpain Jr. will instruct the class in the basic principals of music, including major and minor scales, names of the musical notes and definitions of terms. Time will also be spent studying chords, their strong progressions and relationships to each other. Forms in music, periods in music, and prominent musicians will be included in the course as they correspond with the main subjects.
Tuition expense is $15. for the spring term, books and supplies will probably be around $10.
At present there are four interested people, but the minimum class size is ten people. Please tell your friends about it, they may be interested too.
Contact Bob or Linda DeSpain at home 676-5055, or work 676-9123.

Cheer Leaders at Top

Honors were brought back to Heppner High Saturday night when the HHS varsity cheerleaders returned from a small-schools cheerleading competition day in Wallowa with a first-place trophy.
The competition day was hosted by Wallowa High school. Heppner High's varsity five placed first in the small division.
The area of competition for small groups; the participants were not divided by school size but rather by how many from each school were performing.
Besides placing first, three of the cheerleaders, senior Barb Sherman and juniors Donna Bellamy and Toni Toll, were named to the all-star team, consisting of only ten members, selected by the judges.
The rally performed to the song "Green River." Others on the rally are seniors Lisa McCabe and Debbie Peck. Accompanying the rally squad were Lynda Slusher, advisor, and Walt Pilgrim, who drove the van. Mr. Pilgrim also served as one of the judges. Each school contributed one member to the judging team.

Jean Healy Has Wash., D.C. Visitors

Visiting Jean Healy last week were Wade (Brooklyn) Kirdahi who is with the Selective Service office in Washington, D.C., and 1st Lt. Roger (Skip) Fons, a Helicopter pilot for the U.S. Army, stationed in Washington, D.C. This was the first trip to the west coast for both of them.
Suze Strong of The Dalles, a former roommate of Jean's, accompanied them on a trip through Oregon.
While in Oregon they visited the Coast, Eugene, the State Capitol, Mt. Hood, Kah-nee-Tab and The Dalles.
While in Heppner they were very impressed with the calving operation at the Bill Healy ranch. They also rode horses one afternoon at the Len Ray Schwarz home on Hinton Creek.
Brooklyn went to his first pep assembly, prior to going to the game at Athena.
They were very impressed with Oregon and especially how friendly the people were. They both hope to return for the Round-up this fall.

New Staging Comes to Heppner

A new, unique idea in stage planning and construction will be put into effect when the Heppner Community Drama Club presents Arthur Miller's drama "The Crucible," on the Heppner High stage, April 12-14.
There will be two stages. Below the normal stage, a platform—a semi-stage—will be constructed. It will protrude into the auditorium, and the audience's seats will surround the lower stage. Different scenes from different parts of the play will take place on the lower platform.
The play itself is a difficult one. The story deals with the witchcraft trials that took place in Salem, Mass. in the late 1600s. Much of the play is devoted to the emotional strain on the people of Salem during that time, and the hysteria among the townspeople resulting from the trials. The play is longer than most three-acts, and should last well over three hours.
Mrs. Lynda Slusher is directing. The cast includes Alice Abrams, John Myers, Michele Evans, Linda DeSpain, Shannon Kelly, Lynda Baker, Tami Meador, Holly Walker, John Rawlins, Jane Rawlins, Randy Morris, Bob Jepsen, Mary Abrams, Lloyd Wilson, Tom Roberts, Dave McLeod, Allan McCabe, Greg Davidson, Sally Winters, John Healy, Helen Byrne and Jim Ployhar.
Because of the dramatic lines in the play, each actor has before him a challenge to portray the character convincingly. This is the first time that a serious play of this type has ever been attempted in Heppner.
Make plans early, and be sure to attend this spring production by the Heppner Community Drama Club.

Do You Remember?

A FEW YEARS AGO, AROUND 1950?

You probably didn't use electricity to brush your teeth, much less—trim your hedge, cool your home, heat your blanket, beat your batter, wash your dishes, sharpen your knives, carve a roast, open a can, curl your hair, dry your fingernails, shine your shoes, shampoo your rug, mash your trash (whew), comb your hair, sharpen your pencil, or type a letter.

You've Come a Long Way think about it the next time you plug in your electric barbecue grill.
