KEEP OREGON GREEN

Last year's forest fire record showed an increase in both man-caused and lightning fires on all lands coming under the jurisdiction of the Oregon State Forestry Department and the U.S.Forest Service according to the Keep Oregon Green Association.

There were 1,737 man-caused fires and 1,501 lightning fires making a total of 3,238 fires. Acreage burned during the past year was a total of only 7,592 acres. This was considerable less acreage than the 1971 season when 2,280 fires burned 13,657 acres. Prompt reports of these fires by a rising awareness on the part of the public of fire danger throughout the state made it possible for fire suppression crews to quickly extinguish the fires while small.

A stepped-up Fire Prevention program is being undertaken this year by the Keep Oregon Green Association according to Albert Wiesendanger, Executive Secretary. He also gave loggers in Jackson County a pat on the back for their fine fire prevention record. Jackson County reported 155 fires You've reached middle age caused by activity of man but when you know how to take care not a single one by logging or of yourself—and intend to, one of other forest industry activity. these days.
