IONE

The Ione High School Advisory Board has submitted a questionnaire to parents of school children to inquire how best to handle the problem of rising prices as it pertains to the school lunch program.

The parents are asked to make a preference of four choices: (1) Leave the meal pries the same and lower the quality of the meals; (2) Increase the meal price a small amount (5 cents to 10 cents) and maintain the same quality of meals; (3) Increase the meal prices by a larger amount (15 cents to 25 cents) and raise the quality of the meals; (4) Other suggestions.

The board is planning to hold the lunch program prices at the level of 25 cents per student, 30 cents per adult, and 10 cents for extra milk as long as possible. However, according to John Edmundson, principal of Ione Schools, it appears that the prices will have to be increased before the school year is over.

At a meeting of the Ione Schools Advisory Committee Oct. 4, John Edmundson reported that preliminary contacts have been made that might lead to the placement of one or two exchange students in the Ione Schools.

It will first be necessary to determine the amount of interest in the community for this type exchange. Any family which would be interested in hosting an exchange student is invited to contact Edmundson.
