

LT. AND MRS. WILSON

Linda Marlene Palmer is married in Tacoma

In an evening ceremony performed in Tacoma, Wn., Linda Marlene Palmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald R. Palmer, Heppner became the bride of Lt. Wilson Blackburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Buck, Morehead City, N.C., Jan. 11.

Father Grier officiated at Our Lady Queen of Heaven Catholic Church.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a floor-length gown of chiffon over taffeta, fashioned with a fitted waist, accented with a wide satin waistband and a turned down Mandarin Collar. Her short net veil was held in place with a white satin bow and pearls. She carried a cascading bouquet of lavender daisies and white baby's breath.

Matron of honor was Colleen Blackburn, the bridegroom's sister-in-law. Her floor-length gown was of lavender linen with an empire waist and fitted bodice. She carried a nosegay of lavender daisies in baby's breath.

Li Thomas Blackburn, Tacoma, served his brother as best man. Ushers were Li Chris Brown and Ronald R. Palmer Jr., brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Palmer wore a brown and gold floor-length gown with a fitted waist.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at 114 So.

FAIR BOOTHS NOW BEING RESERVED

Applications for a display booth at the 1974 Morrow County Fair are now being accepted. All industries and businesses are urged to reserve a booth by calling Fair Secretary Lenna Smith at 676-9143, after 5 p.m.

"The more exhibitors the better the fair," Mrs. Smith said.

Mothers organize 'march'

Mothers March volunteers will be calling door-to-door in Heppner, Lexington, Ione, Boardman and Irrigon areas on Thursday, Jan. 31, during the annual March of Dimes drive.

"The Mother March helps medical and allied health professionals at teaching hospitals and major medical centers around the nation. Its programs include investigating causes of birth defects, providing prenatal care for 'high risk' pregnant women, skilled treatment of many kinds of birth defects, and intensive care of the critically ill newborn," reports Carolyn Cole, county Mothers March chairman.

Heppner volunteers will begin their canvass from the Bank of Eastern Oregon at 6 p.m.

Lexington workers will meet at the home of Marie Struthers next week to plan their drive and assign sections of the town. They will conduct an evening appeal on Jan. 31.

Ione marchers will meet at the home of Diana Hams on Jan. 31 and begin their evening canvass at 7 p.m.

Boardman and Irrigon will be canvassed Jan. 21-31, both evenings and days.

Scholarships in medicine available

The Morrow County Council of the Eastern Region of The Oregon Lung Association will receive applications for medical career scholarships soon.

Information and application forms have been taken to the three county high schools. Applicants may be post-high school, may be enrolled in college, may be U.S. veterans or may be persons who wish to upgrade their medical education and prepare for better future employment.

Applications for the $200 scholarships must be turned in to the County Health Office in the court house or to Mrs. Delpha Jones, Lexington by Feb. 15 to be reviewed by the Morrow County Council's scholarship committee. The scholarship winners will be announced about April 1.

Non-high school persons who wish to apply can get applications and information at the County Health Office.

Save money--make your own undies

Morrow County women are learning how to make their own lingerie in one-day workshops conducted by the Morrow County Extension Service.

Jeannie Howell and Extension Aid Birdine Tullis conducted one workshop at the Episcopal Parish Hall, Jan. 21. Participants learned that by knowing lingerie techniques it is easy to make one's own. The savings are well worth the effort. Underpants can be made for under $1 and nightgowns from $2.50 to $5, to list a few savings.

Mrs. Howell demonstrated creative and decorative techniques. Garments made by the two teachers, fabrics and trims, were on display. Each participant made either a pair of underpants or a half slip.

A repeat of this workshop is planned for Tuesday, Jan. 29, at 7:30 p.m. at the Neighborhood Center. There is no charge. The evening session is being held with the working woman in mind, but all are welcomed to participate. Those interested in taking the workshop are asked to contact the extension office at 676-9642 before Tuesday, to find out what they need to bring to the workshop.

Cassie Chappel wins award

Cassie Chapel, senior at Ione High School, was named first place winner of the citizenship award contest sponsored by the Heppner Soroptimist Club at last week's meeting.

Greg Davidson, senior at Heppner High School, won second place.

Miss Chapel was chosen on recommendations by school and community members and on citizenship application. Her qualifications consisted of a variety of school activities, community activities and leadership activities. Her application was also judged on citizenship responsibilities in her family, in her community, and her role as a world citizen.

She received a $25 savings bond from Soroptimist members, and her application will be entered in the district contest this month. The district winner will receive $100 and will compete in the regional contest in February. The regional prize is $1,000. The national winner will be selected in March and will be awarded $1,500.

This year there were eight entries from each high school in Morrow County, according to Daisy Collins, contest chairman.
