Motorist runs down and kills a pet dog

George A. Steagall doesn't upset easily, but he had tears in his eyes when he reported to the Gazette-Times that his two-year-old pet dog was deliberately run over and killed Tuesday by a motorist near the Steagall home on the Heppner-Pilot Rock Highway near the fairgrounds.

Someone traveling at high speed steered his car into the barpit in order to hit the dog, which was left to die. A passing motorist notified Steagall of the incident. He had witnessed the car leave the highway to hit the dog, but was unable to get the description of the car or its license number.

"It's bad enough to lose the dog," Steagall said, "but for anyone to go out of his way to kill it, then fail to stop and report it, is a clear case of hit and run. I'd like to get my hands on that driver."

Dam hearing today

Today, April 25, testimony is being heard in Washington on the matter of reauthorizing construction of Willow Creek Dam.

City Engineer Steve Anderson and Orville Cuisforth are in Washington to testify in behalf of the project before the House Appropriations Subcommittee, and to confer with Cong. Al Ullman, Sens. Mark Hatfield and Bob Packwood on the matter.

Oregon congressional members have also received a petition from Morrow County residents in opposition to construction of the dam.

Congress authorized construction of Willow Creek Dam last summer, but with modifications that changed its basic function from a multi-purpose dam (recreation and flood control) to a single-purpose one, flood control. The Corps of Engineers legal department later ruled that changing the basic function of the dam necessitated referring the project back to Congress for reauthorization as a strictly flood control project.

A daughter, Heather Marie, was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Conforth of Umatilla, April 21.
