Kinzua news . . .

We've all just been informed by Tuesday night's East Oregonian that five new doctors are due to arrive in the Pendleton area this summer. I couldn't help but look at this report with envy. Imagine what even two new doctors would mean to this area.

Our hospital would not have to worry about tax money for support to meet its expenses. We would not have to go out of town for anything other than minor surgery. If things continue as in the past we may not even have either a hospital or a nursing home.

Something can be done if young doctors do not choose to practice in our area privately. The National Health Service Corps is a federal health manpower deployment program established pursuant to Public Law 91-623, The Emergency Health Personnel Act of 1970. This act authorizes the assignment of commissioned officers and civil service personnel of the Public Health Service to areas where health services are inadequate because of critical shortages of health personnel.

Application for Corps assistance may come from a state or local health agency or any other public or non-profit private health organization. The local government for the area, the state and local medical and dental societies, and other appropriate health groups must certify to the secretary that a critical shortage of health manpower does exist in the area.

There must be evidence that the community is willing to furnish support to the assigned personnel. Such support as office space, equipment, supplies and availability of other health personnel other than physicians and dentists.

People in the communities covered by the Corps will have a voice in determining the types of health services they receive and the manner offered. The establishment of a community health committee will give voice to consumer views and mobilize support for the program as well as development of a permanent solution to the communities' health needs.

Recipients of these health services provided by the Corps will be charged a reasonable cost, those unable to pay will not be charged for services. Corps personnel are salaried employees of the federal government. Monies collected will be returned to the federal treasury in accordance with the law whether the operation makes money or not.

I would gladly serve on any organization willing to spearhead this thing. I can't do it alone. We just can't sit back and do nothing. The next heart attack or ruptured appendix may be your own.

In the event that there is interest in exploring the possibilities offered by the National Health Service Corps the regional program director is:

Mr. Coy D. Gaine
506 Arcade Plaza Building
1321 Second Avenue
Seattle, Washington 98101
Area Code (206) 442-7240

I don't like the idea of the federal government providing this service for us, but when it concerns the life and well being of the loved ones I have left I get less choosy.

Just what the hell is going on with respect to law'n order back there in Washington, D.C.? It boggles the mind.

Spiro T. Agnew, while in various offices of public trust from a County Honcho to V.P., fraudulently gets paid off to the tune of about a quarter of a million. So he gets a slap on the wrist. Secret Service protection until an incensed outcry forces its discontinuance; a $10,000 fine and a suspended sentence. What about income tax on those ill-gotten gains? What about it, IRS? If the IRS knew that I or any other average taxpayer hadn't fessed up to say, $2500, illegally gained or not, they'd be banging at the door demanding their share. What the hell is Agnew's tax liability on those funds?

Our ex-Attorney General, Richard Kleindeinst, commits perjury on at least one, and possibly more occasions. Flat-out lying under oath! If that ain't perjury then I'm going to trade in my Webster for Orwell's Doublethink. What happens? He cops to a misdemeanor! A misdemeanor, mind you! That's akin to overtime parking or exceeding the speed limit by 10 MPH! They practically had to invent a brand new crime in order to swing that bit of jaundiced jurisprudence. The refuge employed to enact this neat bit of legal legerdemain has been called by one authoritative source, "a creative use of an inapplicable statute."

Meanwhile, back at the farm, and in the cities and suburbia, the populace in general and the "moralists" in particular bemoan the seeming fact that "people" have no respect for the law anymore.

Whose law? Theirs or ours? Is The Law which applies to people in high office of a different value than the rest of the citizenry? If Mr. Average American gets busted for perjury under oath and let him off with a suspended sentence? I think not.

MIKE WELLS,
Spray.
