Telephone installed at library

This week the Heppner Public Library took a giant step—a telephone was installed.

When Oregon State Librarian Eloise Ebert visited the library last spring she was shocked that there was no telephone in the Museum-Library Building.

Librarian Justine Weatherford told her that the Library Board was requesting a phone in the 1974-75 budget. She suggested that if the request was approved a story should be run in the local paper with a headline saying that at last "the library moves into the 20th century."

It has come to pass. Miss Ebert or any one needing to reach this center of information and pleasure may now dial 676-9964.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Cox and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Davis extend a cordial invitation to relatives and friends to attend the wedding ceremony and reception of their children, Dianne and Cary, Saturday, August 10, 2 p.m., at the Stanley Cox residence.

Library has big month

July has been the busiest month ever for the Heppner Public Library. Over 600 books were checked out. More than 100 children between 4 and 8 years of age accompanied by some mothers and baby-sitters attended the four story hours on Monday mornings. The enrollees from the Tupper Youth Camp and some of their counselors swelled the Thursday evening usage. Twenty-eight persons filled in patron cards as new borrowers during the month.

Many gift books were cataloged. Two of special interest are the new books on handicapped children which were purchased by the O.W. Cutstorths, "Art for Exceptional Children" and "Help Them Grow."

Rand McNally's "1974 Outdoor Recreation Guide" which was ordered early this year finally arrived. It includes sections on hiking, backpacking, trail riding, spe-linking, canoeing, rafting, rockhounding, and camping.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Hardwick and Donnie left Friday for Eugene where Donnie registered for college. On Saturday and Sunday they visited their daughter and son-in-law in Portland, Mr. and Mrs. David Armstrong, and returned home Sunday.
