

SALLY GOODMAN

Sheep, fashion and food program set

A style show, cooking demonstration, colored slides, sewing exhibit and door prizes are part of the treats in store for those who attend the free (S.U.) Extension sponsored program, "Sheep—Fashion and Food."

This special event will be held in Morrow County Thursday, Nov. 7, 7:30-9:30 p.m., at Riverside High School, Boardman.

Sally Bax Goodman, head of the home economics program at Pendleton High School, will present a fashion show of Pendleton garments. Mrs. Goodman is well known in this area as the former Extension home economist in +H and youth development. In addition to the style show, Mrs. Goodman also will demonstrate and give tips on sewing with wool.

Mrs. Tom Watson, Hermiston, will demonstrate and discuss easy ways to prepare lamb. Mrs. Henry Krebs, Roseburg, will give a colored slide presentation of the local sheep industry. Mary Jane Fehrenbacher, Milton-Freewater, will demonstrate weaving with wool. Girls who plan to enter the "Make It With Wool" contest will model their garments.

There will be door prizes at both programs. The show is free and is open to the public.

All homemakers and teenagers are encouraged to attend.

Arrangements for the program are being made by Molly Saul and Debbie Barker, Extension home economists, and Birdie Tullis, program assistant. Mrs. Saul states that each year Home Extension in the two-county area offers a program that features one segment of the local economy. This year the emphasis is on the lamb industry.

VIDA'S PARTY IS SATURDAY

The afternoon and evening of Nov. 2 Vida Heliker is being honored at a community party in the Willows Grange Hall, Lone.

Her daughter, Harriet Bolman, Seattle, and son, Don, and his wife Gladys, Lone, have arranged the gathering. Birthday cake will be served from 2 p.m. on, and Vida's friends are invited to stay through the potluck dinner and into the evening when more visiting and tables of cards will be enjoyed.

Vida, who actually turns 80 on Nov. 1, came to Morrow County in a covered wagon with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Zink. She is the widow of Ernest Heliker.

Soroptimists here for area meeting

The seventh Northeastern Oregon area meeting of the Soroptimist International Association clubs, held here Saturday at St. Patrick's Church, was rated "best yet" by the 60 women attending.

Using the organization's 74-75 theme, "Crossroads for Change," and the international program, "Women Helping Women," as a base for discussions, the area leaders and club members felt that this friendly, cooperative effort moved the clubs from this part of the Northwestern Region forward.

Erna Ratcliff, past-president of the Walla Walla County Club and area chairman, presided at the morning and afternoon sessions. She was aided by Area Secretary Maurine Huffman, also a past-president of the Walla Walla club, and by Evelyn Sweeney, vice-president of the Heppner Club.

The Soroptimists' day began with registration and a friendly coffee hour at 9:30 a.m. At 10:30, in the absence of Mayor Sweeney, Elaine George, former city recorder and several times president of the Heppner Club, extended greetings to delegates on behalf of the city. After other opening ceremonies which included devotions by Ruth Thorne of the Pendleton Club, introductions of officers of the clubs attending by Evelyn Sweeney and a roll call by Maurine Huffman, Mrs. Ratcliff opened the business session.

The area organization was discussed and its by-laws reviewed. Pansy Allen, president of the Baker Club, was elected 1975 area chairman. The Ontario Club's invitation to hold the area gathering there next spring was accepted. LaGrande was chosen as the site for the fall '75 meeting.

Representatives from Baker, LaGrande, Pendleton, Walla Walla County, Goldendale, Pasco-Kennewick, Hood River, Portland and Heppner spoke of projects their clubs have carried on in their communities. Brief questioning and discussion of some of the projects followed.

The noon luncheon was served by the St. Patrick's Altar Society. Father O'Brien gave the invocation. Musical entertainment featured Glendora Fernandez, Pendleton's president, and Ola Mae Groshens, Heppner. Evelyn Sweeney supervised the luncheon program and took charge of the drawing for door prizes.

The afternoon session was led by three past-presidents: Louise Todd, Baker; Jeanne Barnett, Walla Walla County; and Jackie Willmarth, LaGrande. Their contributions were considered of the plans new President Ruth B. Klotz, Soroptimist International of the Americas, Inc., has for the biennium under her leadership and of the international program, "Women Helping Women," with their ideas and suggestions for program implementation at the local club level.

Immediate past governor of the Northwestern Region, Dorothy Berry, Portland, talked to the group informally and offered helpful suggestions.

At the conclusion of the afternoon session, there was a group singing period. Ola Mae Groshens was at the piano and Kay Kimmell, Goldendale, and Jackie Willmarth, LaGrande, were inspirational song leaders.

The area gathering ended at 3 p.m. in the traditional manner with the Soroptimist pledge and Aloha. Many of the visitors then toured St. Patrick's Church and the library-museum before leaving Heppner.

Vi Lanham served as general coordinator for the conference relieving Heppner president and area co-chairman, Marlene Peterson, who has been ill. Eleanor Gonty, Alice Soward and Justine Weatherford made preliminary arrangements. Area Chairman Erna Ratcliff drew up the program. The registration committee included Lenora Smith, Madge Thomson and Mrs. Weatherford. The morning coffee was arranged by Mrs. Gonty and Barbara Paulus. Decorations which featured "crossroads" included a replica of Heppner's north-highway planter and table flower arrangements by Rita Wolff and Hazel Mahoney.

Door prize winners included Erna Ratcliff, whose number brought her the electric coffee urn donated by the Columbia Basin Electric Coop., and Lesla Miller, LaGrande, who gained the "Homesteads and Heritages" donated by Peterson's Jewelry.

A plastic zip-lock bag holding a collection of Heppner souvenirs donated by local merchants was given to each woman registered.

'Hey, I'm Alive!'

Inez Erwin reviewed Helen Klaben's "Hey I'm Alive!" at the October meeting of the Bookworms at the George Curran home on Butter Creek.

This autobiographical, survival story reviews the experiences of a 20-year-old Jewish woman and a 40-year-old Mormon pilot who crashed in Feb. 1962, between Whitehorse and Fort St. John, British Columbia. They were both severely injured. The temperature was 48 degrees below zero and windy.

During the weeks they struggled to live beside their crashed plane, many planes were heard and seen overhead but they were unable to attract attention to themselves. The man, Ralph Flores, was able to move them from the plane to an open place where he stamped out a huge S.O.S. in the snow. They were finally rescued after 49 days of near starvation and struggle.

Helen Klaben's book was copyrighted in 1963 and the edition that Mrs. Erwin used was published by Scholastic Book Services. It concludes with Helen's personal analysis of the change in her understanding of life. She declares, "I discovered that God is Love, and how much I love my mother and family."

Bookworms met Oct. 22 in the Cornett Green home to hear a review by Marion Abrams.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Oswalt, Lone, are parents of a new daughter, Susan Malinda, born Oct. 17, at Good Shepherd Hospital in Hermiston. Grandparents are Mrs. Lavada Oswalt, Chehalis, Wa., and Mr. and Mrs. David Edwards, Hillsboro, Ore.

Garden clubs meet in Pendleton

Representatives of 11 of the 12 garden clubs in Blue Mountain District 10 of the Oregon Federation of Garden Clubs held a workshop in Pendleton, Oct. 22.

A coffee hour was held prior to the business meeting with Inez and Boardman clubs as hostesses.

Special guests from Portland were Mrs. R. E. Elmstrom, state president; Mrs. Edward T. Donahue, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. A. H. Mason, state chairman of the Willamette National Cemetery project; and from Pendleton Mrs. Charles Dallas, state chairman of horticulture for the eastern district.

Mrs. Royal Cambers, Pendleton, district director, presided at the meeting. Mrs. Lee Pettyjohn received special awards in the name of the Lone Garden Club from Mrs. Elmstrom. Reports were given by Mrs. Norman Nelson, district awards chairman, and Rev. Ed Cutting for Mrs. Fred Martin on the native flora project.

Mrs. Lee Pettyjohn was elected as a member of the nominating committee which is to report at the spring meeting at Umatilla in April. Mrs. Martin sent an arrangement of chrysanthemums and pheasant feathers for display. A memorial service for Veda Andrews, a former member of the Echo club and past district director, was conducted by Rev. Ed Cutting, chaplain. A donation in her memory was made by the district to the carillon chimes fund of the Willamette National Cemetery project.

Mrs. Mason expressed her appreciation to all the members who have contributed bottles for making the chimes. She especially thanked all the children in the Lone school who had gathered bottles for this project.

Joe Garden Club members attending were Mrs. Lee Pettyjohn, Mrs. Pete Klinger, Mrs. W. H. Padberg and Mrs. Norman Nelson. From the Heppner club, Rev. and Mrs. Ed Cutting and Mrs. Daniel James attended.

Shoe collection goes on display

This week Ida Farra has arranged a display of miniature shoes in the two cases at the public library.

The library's first exhibit was removed before Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Babb left for their winter home at Apache Junction, Ariz. Mr. Babb's display of stones and examples of his lapidary work attracted interest here.

Mrs. Farra has a large collection of china, pottery, glass and wood shoes that she has acquired—many were gifts from friends. Only part of her collection of more than 50 little shoes can be fitted into the library cases. The shoes are only one of the collections at Mrs. Farra's home on North Main Street.

Ida Wiest Farra has been a

Heppner resident since 1945 when she arrived from Vancouver, Wa., with her husband, Bill, and their son, Jim, after Bill Farra had purchased the shoe repair business from Ed Gonty. Ida grew up in the Dakotas and is one of a family of six girls and seven boys. Her husband died here in 1968. Jim Farra and his family came from their home in San Diego to let Grandma Ida have a good visit with her grandchildren, Michael, Julie and Jennifer, last summer.

Mrs. Farra is a very active member of the United Methodist Church and the Degree of Honor Lodge. She has contributed many items and much time to the County Museum, especially during its recent expansion.

Methodists elect church officers

Central Oregon District Superintendent Askew Crumley, Bend, presided at the annual Charge Conference of the Heppner United Methodist Church here last week.

Members of the congregation made decisions concerning the financial affairs of the church and elected new administrative officers for 1975.

Beginning in January, Clifford Green will serve as chairman of the council. Alma Green will become lay leader. Area chairmen will be Jean Bennett, education; Doris Cutting, missions; Justine Weatherford, social concerns; Barbara James, worship; and John Canaday, stewardship. Special coordinators chosen are: Children's work, Cindy Green; Adult activities, Sylvia McDaniel; and Youth groups, Clifford Green. Other administrative officers include: Vern Barry, treasurer; Beth Bryant, financial secretary; Muriel Palmer, recording secretary; Elsie Leathers, health and welfare secretary; and Very Batty, nominating committee secretary.

Molly Pierce was re-elected youth member of the council. Members-at-large are Howard Bryant, Cornett Green, Gene Pierce, Shirley Connor and Amanda Duvall. Two new trustees are Ella Smith and Elsie Leathers. New members of the pastor-parish committee are Elmer Palmer and Herman Green. New members of the nominating committee are Ida Farra and Justine Weatherford.

SINGSPARATION SET FOR SUNDAY NOV. 10

The next monthly Singspiration arranged by Heppner area churches will be held at the Heppner United Methodist Church. All who enjoy inspirational singing are invited to join in at 7:30 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 10.

The community songsters have been held for several years during the months when schools are in session. They are held at a different church each month.

MUSHROOMS ABOUND

Since the rain came, mushrooms have popped out in their places in the county. Two Bills, Collins and Weatherford, brought a big collection of Shaggy Manes into town after a hunting and picking jaunt up Hinton Creek Tuesday morning.
