

McDaniel-Brannon vows exchanged

MR. AND MRS. MELVIN MCDANIEL

Arletha Brannon, daughter of Celestine Randall, Selah, Washington, became the bride of Melvin McDaniel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas McDaniel, Heppner, Nov. 30, at 7:30 p.m.

The ceremony was read by Rev. Forrest Godin at the Hardman Community Center.

The hall was decorated with lime green and lavender candles and potted gold and bronze chrysanthemums.

The bride, given in marriage by her friend, Walt Campbell, Tualatin, wore a mint green dress. Her matching tiara and veil were handmade by Hilma Campbell. She carried a nosegay of white daisies and baby's breath with white streamers.

Matron of honor was Betty McEwen, Heppner, friend of the bride. Bridesmaid was Iva Lou McDaniel, sister of the groom. Junior bridesmaid was Karmin Brannon, daughter of the bride. Flower girl was Kellie Jo Brannon, also daughter of the bride. Ring bearer was Marty Brannon, the bride's son. Candle lighters were Vickie McDaniel, sister of the groom, and Russell Brannon, son of the bride.

The attendants wore gowns in shades of coral, mint green and lavender. All carried nosegays of gold and lavender straw flowers made by Mary Van Blokland. The junior attendants wore matching mint green dresses with lavender and coral flowered print. They had hairpieces of straw flowers, also made by Mary Van Blokland.

Best man was Dave Henderson, LaGrande, college roommate of the groom. Ushers were Jerry Harshman, Watsburg, Wa., cousin of the groom, and Jim Cason, Heppner, friend of the groom.

Wedding music was played by Mary Bryant, Mary Rogers, Arlington, accompanied by her daughter, Merrill, sang "I Love You Truly" and "Whither Thou Goest."

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Randall wore a beige brocade dress. The groom's mother wore a red and white dress. Both mothers wore corsages of white daisies.

The wedding reception was held at Hardman Community Center Annex.

The tables were decorated with lime green covers and candles with arrangements of lavender and gold straw flowers.

Pouring were: Ramona Marshall, Maxine Jensen and Elma Harshman, all aunts of the groom, and Edna Abel, Hermiston, school friend of the bride. The white cake with lavender roses was made by Mrs. Harold Stevens, Hardman. It was cut and served by Hilma Campbell.

Attending the gift table were Bonnie Buschke and Fran Barnett, Patti Eubanks was in charge of the guest book. Rice packets were passed by Becky Campbell and Karmin Brannon.

The music for the dance following the reception was furnished by Dallas McDaniel, Bobby Stevens, Dick Gorhan and Bill Riley.

For her going-away ensemble the bride wore a brown tweed pants suit.

After a wedding trip to the Oregon coast the couple will reside in Heppner, where Melvin is employed by Paulus Logging and Arletha is a secretary for State of Oregon's Children's Service Division.

JUDGE Paul Jones, center, presents County Commissioner Walter Hayes with a plaque as Commissioner Homer Hughes looks on. Hayes is retiring from the job after serving for 12 years.

What's in handwriting?

Will handwriting analysis reveal innate musical aptitude?

Yes, indeed. In the following handwriting sample we see positive innate indications of musical aptitude.

Very little writing is needed to verify the musical aptitude possessed by the above writer. Potential is displayed mainly in rhythm, directness, intuitiveness, and manual dexterity with fingerskill.

Poise, pride, dignity, organizational ability, appreciation of details, loyalty, fine intellect—all are personal qualities which enhance the musical potential in this writer.

We find in the handwriting an interpretative touch or feeling which gives life, color and meaning to the message of the composers. Also the writer possesses a strong sense of timing. Interpretative ability and timing increase the writer's power in musical renditions.

The superbly strong rhythmic sense and creativeness of thinking reflected in this handwriting reveal a high potential for technical accuracy as a musical performer.

There is a potential for teaching and administration evident here. The writer is precise, exact and systematic in planning. And the intuitive, perceptive insight will enable the writer to identify with others to gain their cooperation.

Technical dexterity and interpretative sense, then, combine to bring into clear focus the writer's inborn musical talent.

Churches in joint Christmas program

Children and adults of the All Saints Episcopal Church and the United Methodist Church joined in a traditional Christmas program in the sanctuary of the Methodist Church Sunday evening.

Rev. David Blackaller, Rev. Edwin Cutting and Sunday School teachers Shirley Connor, Barbara James, Linda Briedenbach, Jean Bennett and Judy Gochner were assisted by Organist Pauline Miller and Director Arnie Hedman and the adult choir in the presentation.

The Biblical story of the first Christmas featured Mardell James as Mary, John Briedenbach as Joseph, Tommy James as a shepherd and Deanne Connor and Cindy Gochner as angels. The Three Wise Men were David Green, Greg Connor and Kenneth Gochner. A group of seven primary class singers presented several numbers: Andrea Ball, Penny Connor, Kirsten Green, Shelly and Cindy Strober and Michael and Kevin Reitmann. Four 7th grade girls introduced the parts of the tableau and read descriptive passages: Alice Abrams, Lela Briedenbach, Melody Gochner and Janet Sherman.

Rev. Cutting and Rev. Blackaller shared the prayers and scriptural reading.

A special feature of the evening was the performance of the adult choir made up of members from the two congregations and directed by Arnie Hedman.
